VAN NUYS (UPI) — Democratic Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, who led the successful campaign to defeat Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax and spending limitation plan, today announced his candidacy for governor.

The athletic, 37-year-old legislator targeted as his chief objective: "To take California government out of the control of a powerful, privileged few and put it back where it belongs, in the hands of the people."

Moretti, who has listed his net worth at $39,747, kicked off his campaign for his party's nomination at the June 4 primary from his modest San Fernando Valley home.

He also called news conferences at San Francisco and Sacramento to become the sixth officially announced candidate in a jampacked field of Democratic gubernatorial contenders.

Moretti, who as speaker of the Assembly has worked with Reagan in fashioning compromise welfare reform and property tax relief programs, led the fight last November to defeat the governor's tax and spending limitation ballot initiative, Prop. 1.

"My opposition to Prop. 1 last year was called by many an act of political suicide, especially for a man planning to run for governor," he said. "I opposed the governor's ill-conceived tax plan, nevertheless, because it was wrong."

Elected speaker of the Assembly in 1971 when Democrats regained control of the Assembly, Moretti said his record of accomplishments was achieved "under some of the worst conditions possible."

"It's not perfect, nor am I, but I think it demonstrates my ability to get things done for our citizens even when the governor is of the opposite party," he said.

In his prepared announcement, Moretti, the son of an Italian chef, made no "lavish" promises, stressed his modest economic upbringing and declared himself a "product of the real world, not the monied interests in our society."

"I think it's time, once and for all, we ended this process in which the rich get richer with government help," he said. "It's time that the power of the governor's office be used not just for the powerful but for all of us."

Moretti, a one-time protege of former Assembly Speaker Jess Unruh, is the author of pending legislation to provide a collective bargaining process for public employes, including the right to strike, if necessary.

An opponent of the death penalty, he received heavy fire last year when he reshuffled a key committee in what critics said was an attempt to kill legislation restoring capital punishment. The bill ultimately was enacted.

He also said he expects to spend about $3 million in his primary and general election campaigns and would "take contributions from anybody who wants to give them to me as long as they don't quid-pro-quo me."

A graduate of Notre Dame University, Moretti signed on as a reapportionment staff consultant to the Assembly in 1964 and won a seat in 1964 at age 28. Generally regarded as a moderate Democrat philosophically, he is the single most powerful lawmaker in California.

Judge Orders Nixon To Testify In Los Angeles

Jurist Cites Burr Trial In Ellsberg Case Ruling

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A superior court judge, setting an historical precedent, today ordered President Nixon subpoenaed to testify at the trial of three former White House aides accused of the Ellsberg burglary.

Judge Gordon Ringer said he would comply with a defense motion to order the President to give testimony at a pretrial hearing in the case Feb. 25 and also to appear for the trial that is scheduled to begin April 15.

The court was told by defense counsel that James St. Clair who recently took over as head of the legal team advising Nixon on Watergate related matters told them "he would advise the President against making a voluntary appearance."

The jurist cited the Aaron Burr treason trial of 1807 in which the Chief Justice ordered Thomas Jefferson to turn over a letter to the court as establishing the precedent that a President could be subpoenaed.

The action came on a motion filed by attorneys for John D. Ehrlichman, Nixon's former domestic affairs adviser. The motion asked that the President either be subpoenaed or written statements be obtained from him.

Before the news that Ringer had taken such action, White House lawyers said they advised Ehrlichman that the President would not voluntarily appear in his behalf in California.

"Any discussion of that would be pure speculation and if there are any further developments they will be dealt with by the White House counsel's office as they arise," Warren said.

Warren confirmed that James St. Clair, head of Nixon's team of Watergate attorneys, had talked recently by telephone with Ehrlichman's California attorney. He said Ehrlichman's lawyer, identified as Douglas Dalton, requested Nixon's appearance and St. Clair told him he "would recommend against voluntary appearance by the President."

Warren also declined to say what Nixon's attitude would be toward furnishing a sworn deposition in the case.

Ringer said that he would hear further arguments on the matter in the event that Nixon chooses to resist the subpoena to testify on grounds of executive privilege.

The motion to subpoena Nixon was brought by Douglas Dalton, one of Ehrlichman's attorneys. Ehrlichman is accused of conspiracy, burglary and perjury in connection with the break-in of the Beverly Hills office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis Fielding during the Labor Day weekend of 1971.

Also on trial are David Young and G. Gordon Liddy, who are accused of burglary and conspiracy.

Dalton's motion to subpoena the President is crucial to the defense claim that they were "victims of discriminatory prosecution" when the Los Angeles County Grand Jury indicted them on the charges.

The defense maintains that Ehrlichman, Liddy and Young were acting as federal law enforcement officers and that it is not the normal policy of the county district attorney's office to prosecute policemen who illegally obtain evidence.

The break-in was ordered by the White House "plumbers unit" as part of a national security investigation shortly after the Pentagon Papers were published.

In Washington today Republicans, fearing that they have the most to lose by a long impeachment proceeding against President Nixon, plan to try for a vote in the House Judiciary Committee by April 30.

GOP committee members decided to try to include that cutoff date in a resolution seeking a formal House mandate for continuing the impeachment inquiry and subpoena powers for the committee. The Committee vote is expected Thursday.

Special Counsel John M. Doar and chief GOP counsel Albert E. Jenner were to brief the entire committee today.

Nixon Lifts Tax On Investments

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Prompted by a brightened trade position and the strong position of the dollar in overseas exchange markets, President Nixon today eliminated for the first time in 11 years a tax used to restrain U.S. foreign investments.

Under an executive order, the effective rate of the interest equalization tax has been eliminated in terms of trades and acquisitions of any foreign stocks or debt obligations.

The Treasury Department said that the move was "appropriate in light of the improvements in the U. S. balance of payments position, (and) the strong position of the dollar in the exchange market . . ."

The order was coordinated with actions by the Treasury and Commerce departments and the Federal Reserve Board.

Nixon's action fulfilled a campaign promise to do away with the restrictive tax by 1974. The tax had been instituted partly because of pressure by organized labor, which felt that industry was exporting jobs along with its cash investments abroad.

The tax, in effect, said that U.S. capital could earn no more than U.S. investments at home, with the federal government getting the difference between the rates in the United States and abroad.

According to Treasury, the order effectively lifts the restraints which have been in force in varying forms since 1963 on capital outflows from the United States.

"Under the interest equalization tax legislation, the President has the authority to reduce the rate of the IET to zero when that action is consistent with balance of payments objective of the United States," the Treasury statement said.

The Commerce Department announced yesterday that the United States sold more goods abroad last year than were imported, so that there was a $1.677 billion trade surplus in 1973.

The tax had been in effect since July 1963 to help restrain the outflow of American capital into portfolio investments in other developed countries.

The rate of the tax has varied. The last change was Jan. 1 when the rate was reduced from 11.25 per cent to 3.75 per cent with respect to foreign stocks and from a rate equivalent to the charge of approximately 0.75 per cent per annum to a rate of approximately 0.25 per cent per annum on foreign debt obligations.

LAIRD FEELS NIXON WILL SERVE TERM

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Melvin R. Laird predicted today that President Nixon will not resign or be impeached.

Laird, who leaves his post as White House counselor Friday, made the assessment before the Sarah McClendon Press Briefing Group in the White House.

"Right now I think there is no question . . . on a basis of a feeling I get that a substantial majority in the House of Representatives are against indictment impeachment," he said.

As for resignation, Laird said Nixon has spoken on the subject and "I'm convinced he means what he says."

Protection Of Agnew Said Illegal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite a request from President Nixon that former Vice President Spiro Agnew be guarded by the Secret Service, there is no legal basis for that protection, Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats has ruled.

In a letter released today by Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., Staats said the General Accounting Office still is awaiting further information from the White House before ruling on the legality of the expense of paying eight persons to help Agnew close out his government affairs.

Having earlier attacked as a "scandal" Agnew's use of a staff at government expense and a chauffeured limousine, Moss asked the GAO to rule on the legal authority for such expenditures.

Agnew resigned Oct. 10 and did not contest a charge of income tax evasion. Moss said "there is no justification for such continued taxpayer expense and this is only an arbitrary action on behalf of a convicted felon."

Staats said the White House told GAO the expense of providing protection for Agnew, including limousines and drivers, is covered under an appropriation titled "special assistance to the President." The total amount expended in protection from Oct. 10 through Dec. 15 was $89,222.

The protection has continued but the number of agents assigned to the detail and the cost since Dec. 15 was not made available to the GAO. The Secret Service also refused to say how long the protection would continue.

On Oct. 10 Nixon sent a letter to Treasury Secretary George Shultz stating: "You are hereby requested to direct the United States Secret Service to provide a detail for the protection of former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew for a reasonable period of time."

Senate Asked To Kill Energy Legislation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today asked the Senate to kill legislation that would give him sweeping emergency powers to deal with the energy crisis and to draft a new bill without a section that would curb windfall profits to the oil industry.

In a letter to Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, Nixon said it would be "most unfortunate" for Congress to pass the compromise version worked out by House-Senate negotiators.

The Senate was to vote at 4 p.m. EDT on a motion to return the bill to conference. If that fails, the Senate would vote on the compromise bill.

"The time and opportunity now exist for refining this legislation which was so hastily put together during the closing

Researchers See Link Between Beef, Cancer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Researchers in Hawaii have discovered the possibility of a link between beef and cancer of the colon, the National Cancer Institute said yesterday.

The study by NCI investigators and Japanese colleagues in Hawaii supports tentative conclusions pointing toward a correlation between colon cancer and consumption of beef, the institute said.

"They stressed that present findings are not sufficient to label beef consumption as cancer-causing, but they may narrow considerably the area of search," NCI said in its latest publication.

NCI reported that other data also has shown a possible correlation between beef consumption and cancer of the colon. Among U.S. blacks and in the South, where poultry and pork have been major animal protein foods, colon cancer risks are low. Seventh Day Adventists, many of whom eat no beef, have a colon cancer death rate 20 per cent lower than expected. Countries such as Canada and Uruguay, which have a high incidence of colon cancer, also consume large quantities of beef.

Death from cancers of the colon —large intestines and rectum —are second only, among cancers, to deaths to lung cancer.

YOUTH AND THE LAW

Juvenile Referee Hears Many Kinds Of Stories

By GEORGE NEVIN
(Second of five articles on juvenile justice in Marin).

Susan cried in juvenile court.

But most of the 37 youngsters who appeared one recent day before Juvenile Referee Jack L. Blaine in the makeshift courtroom at Marin's juvenile hall weren't nervous or unhappy.

They seemed bored, detached, tuned out.

The others were in court for offenses only a minor can commit — truancy, running away from home, disobeying parents — or because they themselves were victims of parental abuse or neglect.

Juvenile lawbreakers, Blaine once said, run the gamut of adult offenders, from petty thieves to murderers.

There was no murderer that day, but there were burglars, drug and alcohol users and general hell-raisers.

A petition prepared by a probation officer gave some history on Paul. It told how he had been a model boy until six months ago, when he ran away after an argument with his

Since then, his divorced mother told police, her son had been "nothing but trouble." He ran away five or six times, took money from her purse, sold his bicycle without permission and broke into several neighborhood homes to steal toys and food.

When he didn't come home from school one day, his mother called police, and he was picked up that night and taken to juvenile hall, a large cluster of buildings in Lucas Valley.

Within two working days — a time frame set by law — Paul made his first appearance before Referee Blaine for a "detention hearing."

Juvenile authorities had been busy during those two days. A probation officer, filling a function served by a deputy district attorney in adult court, investigated Paul's case.

He recommended making Paul a "ward of the court," giving the court complete control over where the boy lived and went to school. Blaine did so and ordered Paul to return home on probation.

Then came the latest offense: Paul didn't return from school

Marin Will Bring Action For Public Defense Funds

Marin County supervisors moved swiftly and unanimously today to file suit against the state to force payment of about $78,000 in unpaid subsidies to the public defender's office.

The action came as County Administrator John F. Barrows told supervisors the state, for the fourth year in a row, has said it will not honor "its legal requirement" to reimburse 10 per cent of the county's cost for defending the poor.

Within seconds, Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini proposed and other supervisors supported filing legal action against the state.

At stake this fiscal year is $27,700. Unpaid bills total $78,000 since fiscal 1970-71.

In a letter to the county last week, an official of the Office of Local Assistance said the state ran out of reimbursement funds during the first quarter of fiscal 1973-74.

Barrows, who called the situation a "new low in absurdity," said Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, may be asked for assistance also. "Maybe with Bagley running for state controller we'll get some action. He'll find a solution." Barrows told the Independent-Journal.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Bolivia Placed Under Siege

La PAZ (UPI) — President Hugo Banzer imposed a state of siege in Bolivia last night to combat what he called an attempt by foreign guerrillas to set up bases in his country for attacks against other nations of South America.

Banzer

Brig. Gen. Banzer said his right-wing government intended to oust the alleged leftist guerrillas and maintain peace and order in Bolivia.

Political sources said Bolivian authorities made numerous roundups of suspected subversives throughout yesterday, but declined to give any details.

Banzer, who came to power in 1971 coup against leftist Gen. Juan Jose Torres, said the state of siege, abrogating constitutional law, would give his government power to crack down on the guerrillas.

Hair Conviction

ALCONBURY, England (UPI) — Dan Pruitt's Air Force buddies carried him shoulder high off to the stockade, the collar-length hair which gained him his sentence bounding in the light breeze.

The 25-year-old Vietnam veteran from Birmingham, Ala., was convicted by a court-martial yesterday on eight counts of disobeying direct orders to get his hair cut.

The court-martial sentenced him to four months confinement with hard labor, a bad conduct discharge, loss of $600 in pay and demotion to the rank of airman.

Bus Is Gunned

BELFAST (UPI) — Extremists sprayed machine gun fire at a British Royal Air Force bus on a rural Northern Ireland road today, touching off a gunbattle that killed a woman in a nearby house and wounded two airmen.

The death raised the fatality toll in four years of violence among majority Protestants, minority Roman Catholics and security forces to 944.

Mariner Problem

PASADENA (UPI) — A gyroscope on Mariner 10, speeding through space toward Venus and Mercury, acted erratically yesterday, wasting about 25 per cent of the spacecraft's control fuel.

An alarm sounded at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, warning scientists that Mariner's supply of nitrogen gas was dropping rapidly.

A radioed command shut down the gyroscope, which had been controlling the craft for the past 10 days, and the gas wastage stopped. But the supply of nitrogen-used to swivel the probe about in attitude and course corrections — had dropped from about 6 pounds to about 4½ pounds.

Lab technicians had not figured out the cause of the malfunction. The space explorer is due to swing past Venus next Tuesday and speed on toward Mercury.

Student Sues FBI

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Lori Paton, 16, a high school student from Chester, N.J., hopes to study Chinese in college and eventually work for the State Department. Her plans may be hurt, however, because she was the subject of a criminal investigation by the FBI.

The FBI confirmed yesterday that Miss Paton was investigated after she received some printed material from the Socialist Workers party as part of a social studies class project.

The party was being investigated by postal authorities in New York about the time Miss Paton wrote a letter requesting the material.

Miss Paton has brought a federal suit, charging the probe may hurt her career plans. She is seeking $65,000 in damages and a court order expunging her name from an FBI file which she contends has the notation number "SM," meaning "subversive matter."

Trawler Suit

NEW YORK (UPI) — The federal government has filed a civil action that could make it the owner of a Bulgaria fishing trawler, its tackle and 364,000 pounds of processed mackerel.

The action announced yesterday by U.S. Attorney Paul J. Curran was said to be the first of its kind against a foreign fishing vessel on the East Coast. A number of similar actions have been taken on the West Coast, authorities said.

The ship in question, the Limoza, was seized by the Coast Guard off the New Jersey coast last Saturday, allegedly while it was fishing within the U.S. 12 mile fishing limit. Seventy men were aboard.

The captain has insisted he was 13½ miles offshore, in international waters.

Wheat Offered

NEW YORK (UPI) — Vladimir S. Alkhimov, the Soviet Union's vice minister of foreign trade, yesterday said Russia might be willing to sell back some of the large quantities of American grain it bought last year.

Referring to complaints in the United States that the massive sale wheat sale was made at prices that were too low, he said, "We bought at the market price-maybe it was a little cheap, but remember we sold you Alaska for $6 million, which was very cheap, and we're not complaining."

Alkhimov said the Soviet Union produced record harvests in 1973, and there would be "no problem" in selling some of the wheat back to the United States.

Protest Broken Up

LODZ, Poland (UPI) — Police broke up a three-day demonstration by striking taxi drivers protesting recent increases in cab fares and gasoline prices, witnesses said today.

The strike and demonstrations began last Tuesday, the first reported protests against a series of price increases announced by the Polish government 10 days ago.

A government spokesman, however, denied there was a demonstration. "The men simply were coming to pick up information on the new fare system," he said.

Demos Favored

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Louis Harris poll released yesterday said voters would favor Democratic candidates by a 50 per cent to 32 per cent margin if this year's congressional elections were held in January instead of November.

While a September poll gave the Democratics a 53 to 31 per cent margin, ". . . the lead for the Democrats is still massive," the survey said. "There seems to be no doubt that the GOP is in deep trouble in the off-year elections as this key political year begins."

The survey found Republican chances losing ground in the South, in small towns and rural areas, and among union members, Catholics and persons over 50.

Rail Walkouts Cripple London

LONDON (UPI) — Wildcat rail walkouts today threw London commuter services into chaos for the second day in a row. Tens of thousands jammed into the few trains running or tried to storm already overcrowded buses.

Leaders of Scottish mineworkers appealed to rail and transport unions to blockade coal shipments if, as generally expected, Britain is plunged into a national mines shutdown Feb. 10.

Prime Minister Edward Heath's government headed into open conflict with both coal miners and railroad engineers. British newspapers said it could be one of the most destructive industrial disputes in the nation's peacetime history.

"Is everybody going bloody mad?" headlined the London Daily Mirror. "The prospect is dark," said the Times of London. "Cool it," urged the London Daily Express.

The rail disruption resulted mainly from wildcat walkouts by members of other unions angry because they received no overtime pay Sunday when the union representing 29,000 locomotive engineers halted all rail services in the country for the seventh consecutive week.

Worst hit were London's 300,000 long-suffering commuters, who found scores of trains canceled because crews did not show up for work.

Len Murray, general secretary of the 10 million-member Trades Union Congress (TUC) called in rail engineers leader Ray Buckton to discuss the conflict.

This followed a decision yesterday by the rail engineers to escalate their overtime ban of six and a half weeks and to step it up into twice-weekly, one-day regional rail shutdowns.

Leaders of militant Scottish coal miners met rail and transport union representatives in a bid to slap a crippling ban on coal movements in case of a national coal strike.

EDWARD HEATH
Into open conflict

About 70 per cent of Britain's electric power is produced by coal.

Shares plunged again on the stock market. The Financial Times Index dropped to 300.1 shortly after the start of business compared with yesterday's 301.7 close—lowest in seven years.

Heath told the nation last night that Communist mine union leaders, using the threat of a crippling strike, had begun a campaign to destroy his antiinflation program and eventually unseat the government.

"They have made it clear that they want to get rid of the elected government of the day and to get a leftwing government which will carry out their objectives," Heath said in a television interview. "The government cannot yield to the brute force of industrial power."

Leaders of 269,000 miners have ordered a rank-and-file ballot Thursday and Friday, asking for a nationwide coal shutdown Feb. 10.

Brezhnev Keeps Busy In Havana

MIAMI (UPI) — Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid Brezhnev spent his first full day in Cuba today meeting with local Communist officials and preparing for an evening address at ceremonies hosted by Fidel Castro.

A Cuban radio broadcast monitored here said Osvaldo Dorticos, president of Cuba and a Communist party official, was consulting with Brezhnev along with Castro and his brother, Raul Castro, armed forces minister.

"The visit of Comrade Brezhnev helps show the mark of success of the Soviet system," one radio report said today. Another reflected on the millions of Cubans who welcomed Brezhnev to Havana yesterday and said it was a "sign that the USSR is recognized for being at the head of the world in humanity."

Topping Brezhnev's schedule today was to be the 5 p.m. formal welcoming rally at the Plaza de la Revolucion in Havana.

It was not known whether Brezhnev would himself deliver a reply to Castro's welcome, or limit himself to a few remarks concerning his impressions of Cuba.

Even before Brezhnev was welcomed yesterday by Fidel and Raul Castro and Dorticos, radio commentators were calling the weeklong trip one of "exceptional political importance."

It was those four who rode 22 miles through the streets of Havana yesterday waving to the crowds that lined the boulevards and side streets for Brezhnev's first Cuban visit.

The throngs shouted "Viva Brezhnev!" and "Viva Fidel!" Cuban radio described "thousands and thousands of voices filling the plaza," and "red flags, Cuban flags, Soviet flags, and pictures of Comrade Brezhnev, Fidel, and Lenin."

Egypt Thinning Out Trapped Third Army

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egypt today began thinning out its 3rd Army, trapped for more than three months by the Israeli army, and some units crossed the Suez Canal from the Sinai Peninsula and entered Suez City.

The Israeli forces which had driven to within 50 miles of Cairo in their deepest penetration of Egypt, began pulling back from the Kilometer 101 area today in the second phase of their withdrawal.

Hundreds of other Israeli trucks and tanks had rumbled eastward across the canal yesterday toward what they have dubbed the Kissinger Line in the Sinai Desert, about 13 miles behind in the first phase of their withdrawal from Egypt.

Maj. Gen. Hassan El Greitly, the Egyptian army chief of operations, said in a speech in Cairo yesterday the Israeli pullback came as a result of Egyptian military pressure. "The battle against the enemy will continue until all occupied Arab territories have been liberated," he told a meeting of a women's club.

"The Israeli force had no other choice but to withdraw because our troops were continuing their attrition of the enemy and we knew that the announced enemy losses were only one tenth of the reality," Greitly told the meeting, attended by Mrs. Anwar Sadat and the wives of government ministers.

"The enemy withdrawal took place because the enemy was in a position in which its continued presence in that area was impossible and was under constant threat of liquidation," Greitly said.

One group of Israelis withdrew yesterday, ending the siege of Suez City and freeing the Egyptian 3rd Army. Another force which had driven to within 50 miles of Cairo in their deepest penetration of Egypt in the October war began pulling back today in the second phase.

It's all part of a long-range program by the Marin County Public Works Department to convert the county's mile posts to the metric system. The 30 posts installed last week along Lucas Valley Road are the first in Marin, according to Ray W. Foreaker Jr. public works director, who said the entire conversion will take years.

Marin City Council To Take Housing Complaints To HUD

By PAUL LIBERATORE

The community has not been allowed to participate in planning Marin City's redevelopment project and modernization program for public housing apartments, the Marin City Council charged last night.

Council members agreed to take their complaints against the Marin County Housing Authority and Redevelopment Agency to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) in San Francisco.

They said that despite their appeals to Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director for both agencies, he has failed to keep them informed of the progress of plans for modernizing high-rise apartments in Marin City.

"We're not sure whether the modernization program even exists," said council chairman Melvin Atkins.

He and his colleagues expressed fear that money for the $500,000 project, planned for two years, has been misspent.

"We have no contact with the housing authority," Atkins said. "We have asked for information but haven't received any."

The council decided to have the matter placed on the agenda of the authority board's Feb. 5 meeting.

Members said they will ask about financing, employment of Marin City residents in renovation work and relocation of tenants whose homes will be remodeled in the project.

Council members also called for reestablishment of the project area committee, a short-lived community-based group that was to advise the redevelopment agency. The committee was disbanded last year amid charges of mismanaging funds and improperly replacing members who had resigned.

Council member Nesbit Crutchfield pointed out that three letters to housing and urban development officials protesting the operation of the redevelopment agency without a project area committee had been ignored.

"HUD is much closer to the two local public agencies than to the residents of the community," he said.

He and his colleagues decided to send a council delegation to HUD offices in San Francisco to discuss the matter and to lodge an administrative complaint with federal officials in Washington, D.C., if necessary.

PHILATELIC MEMENTO — This hand cancellation will be applied at the San Rafael main post office on Feb. 18 to 500 special envelopes prepared by the San Rafael Lions Club to note the 100th anniversary of the city's incorporation.

Nancy Gunn Files Papers For Assembly

Nancy Gunn, 23-year-old Penngrove resident, yesterday filed in Sonoma County her declaration of intent to run for the state Assembly seat being vacated by William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

She is a second-year law student at Golden Gate University.

Miss Gunn had earlier announced her plans to run for the nomination for the seat in the Ninth District, which includes all of Marin and Southern Sonoma county.

Yesterday Republican Albert J. Schloegel of Rohnert Park also filed the necessary declaration. Failure to file such a document by Feb. 6 will bar a candidacy in the election.

Other candidates who have announced plans to run for the Assembly seat but who have not filed declarations yet are Marin Democrats George J. Silvestri Jr., Jack R. Felson and Michael Wornum and Republican Gerald G. Hood.

ENERGY

days of the last session," Nixon said.

"We have been able to make do without emergency legislation thus far, and I urge you and your colleagues to take the additional time required for developing a truly responsible product."

Nixon said 13 sections of the bill present difficulties, and added some do not belong in the bill and others should be modified.

Specifically, Nixon called for eliminating the sections which create a federal Energy Emergency Administration; a section which would curb windfall profits; and a section dealing with unemployment which might be generated by the energy crisis.

Nixon said the question of windfall taxes should be "addressed through a rational tax scheme using the normal legislative process."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he opposed the recommittal motion but added it would be more difficult to defeat because it is being led by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.

The administration and oil industry representatives have been trying to get the bill recommitted. One of the matters they object to in the bill as it stands is the windfall profits tax, which federal energy chief William E. Simon said last week is unworkable.

Nelson also was of the view the tax provision was unworkable, although he favored the idea in general. Since Nelson is a northern liberal and not usually a spokesman for the administration or the oil industry, his opposition was expected to add extra weight to recommittment.

Special Centennial Envelopes Scheduled

A special hand-cancellation of cacheted envelopes is being sponsored by the San Rafael Lions Club to commemorate the 100th anniversary of incorporation of San Rafael on Feb. 18.

Dr. Howard Levenson, in charge of the project for the Lions Club in conjunction with the San Rafael Centennial Committee, announced today that arrangements have been made for the special cancellation to be applied at the main San Rafael Post Office on Bellam Boulevard on the anniversary date.

Design for the hand cancellation is by Fred Dekker, centennial committee artist. Antique finish brown standard-sized envelopes are being printed with the centennial seal (also designed by Dekker) to provide attractive "covers" for collectors.

Only 500 of the special envelopes will be printed, Dr. Levenson said and the special cancellation will be used only on them. Advance orders are being taken at the Grant Stamp Center, 969 Grand Avenue. Any covers remaining will be sold at the Lions Club's booth in the centennial fair on May 25 at Forest Meadows.

Defendant Said Victim Of Fantasy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Defense attorney Patrick Hallinan says that a psychiatrist's son charged with being the "paper bag killer" of two men is living in a "total fantasy world."

The attorney told newsmen yesterday that his client's "imagination created a fantasy world in which he was a Don Quixote trying to rectify the wrongs that were done to a girl he loved."

He also noted that the unnamed girl friend of William P. Hanson, 24, was raped in 1972 and asserted his client thought he was killing the rapist.

Both Lorenzo Carniglia, 70, and Ara Kuznezow, 54, were shot on city streets by a young man who pulled a gun from a white paper bag, fired and then fled.

Hanson "wanted to get caught," Hallinan said. "He made a complete confession to a friend. The friend told police and he was greatly relieved when they showed up."

Hanson, the son of Dr. Karl H. Hanson, was arraigned in the Kuzenow case yesterday and is expected to be arraigned in the Carniglia slaying.

Woman Is Hurt In Auto Crash

A Point Reyes Station woman was hurt yesterday when her car plunged off Lucas Valley Road and into a creek.

Kay Georgia Kaye, 38, of 40 Manana Way, suffered back and nose injuries in the 1 p.m. crash. She was taken to Ross General Hospital where officials declined today to report her condition.

The California Highway Patrol said the woman was driving too fast to negotiate a curve and her eastbound auto went off the road and splashed into the creek.

Hearing Is Set On General Plan

Open space and conservation elements of the proposed Corte Madera general plan will receive a public hearing before the town's planning commission at 7:30 p.m. today in town hall.

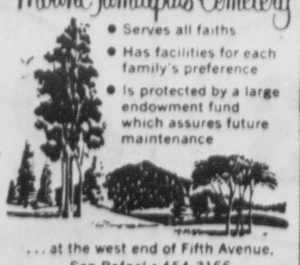

The town has been forbidden to issue building permits since Dec. 31 because it did not meet the state deadline for adoption of open space and conservation elements.

Paving Requires Traffic Rerouting

Paving on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo will require rerouting of eastbound traffic onto Center Boulevard over the next several days, according to a public works spokesman.

Authorities said Clough vanished while on probation on an income tax evasion sentence.

He has lived in Hayward and Alameda.

YOUTH

one day. Instead he broke into a neighborhood house.

He stole food and several toys from a box of cereal. The next day he was arrested; police said he had broken into yet another house.

Like many minors under 14 in juvenile court, and a growing number of older youths as well, Paul was represented by an attorney, Mary T. Grove of the public defender's office.

She began by admitting Paul ran away from home and broke into the second house. But he did not enter the first one, she said.

"This boy needs a placement away from home," she said, as Paul's mother looked on with concern.

"I don't think he's old enough to form criminal intent," the referee said. "Unless there's other evidence, the law says children under 14 can't form the intent to commit a crime."

Blaine seemed inclined to release Paul to his mother until she volunteered that her son had been caught at home lighting fires.

"That's the first evidence of a more serious problem," said Blaine. "I want a complete psychological and psychiatric workup on him."

Miss Grove agreed, and Blaine ordered the youth to return to court in a month for disposition of his case, the juvenile equivalent of sentencing.

In the meantine, Paul was to remain with his mother. In most cases children who will be placed in a foster home are kept with their natural parents until formal disposition takes place, although in rare instances, when conflicts at home are too great, they will be taken to a temporary receiving home or to juvenile hall.

During the day-and-a-half block of cases in which Paul appeared, three other youths came before Blaine on burglary petitions, and a fourth for allegedly stealing his father's car and boat.

With these exceptions, the 37 youths were there for noncriminal activities — running away from home (15 cases), review (eight), dismissal following satisfactory performance on probation (five), truancy (three) and disposition (two).

Kohoutek Ends Observations

A spokesman for the observatory said Kohoutek spent little time studying his own comet but concentrated instead on the luminous hazes that surround the planets of the solar system.

The spokesman said the observatory will continue to take pictures of Kohoutek's comet and send them to him in Hamburg.

Preserving Two Areas Supported

The Novato Planning Commission last night recommended establishing two agricultural preserves in the city.

The commission suggested that 487 acres southeast of Deer Island and the 71-acre H. M. Rowland property, west of Highway 101, opposite Hamilton Air Force Base, be designated agricultural preserves.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

REZONING — Recommended rezoning of two acres at 1815 Marion Avenue from agricultural to single-family detached homes to bring the parcel into conformance with the Novato General Plan.

NAVE APPEAL — Granted Robert Nave's appeal of a plan review committee condition requiring curb, gutter and sidewalk during rehabilitation of the Nave Shopping Center.

STREET NAME — Recommended that the name of a portion of Leafwood Drive, south of Sunset Parkway, be changed to Leafwood Heights as requested by the Lynwood Park Improvement Association.

FLOOD ZONING — Set a special meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the Novato Community House to consider applying floodway zoning to lands in the Nave Gardens area, now under an interim ordinance controlling development.

Commissioner Richard L. O'Connell was absent.

Vote Asked On Smoking Restrictions

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A drive is mounting in Sacramento to let the people decide if a recently adopted ordinance restricting cigarette smoking in public places is really needed.

Bill Holden and Larry Rogers said yesterday they plan to collect 19,335 signatures needed to bring the smoking measure to a vote of the people.

"We decided this isn't right," said Holden, a smoker. "This law shouldn't go into effect without the people having something to say about it."

The city council passed the controversial ordinance last Thursday by a 5-3 vote. It will become effective Feb. 23.

If the drive is successful, the city will call a special election within 60 days after the petitions are turned in.

The ordinance places restrictions on restaurants, theaters and other public places.

Youth Arraigned On Check Charge

A 19-year-old San Francisco youth was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on charges of forging $400 in checks on the account of his grandmother, who lives in Corte Madera.

Eben Gossage is to enter pleas to the charges tomorrow. He was held in jail in lieu of $5,000 bail.

San Rafael police said Gossage last month cashed two $200 checks on the account of his grandmother, Emma Baty, and attempted to cash another $200 check on Jan. 15.

Police said a bank official became suspicious when Gossage attempted to cash the third check and called police.

Novato Candidates Will Talk Thursday

The North Marin unit of the Marin Conservation League will hold a Novato City Council candidates' night at 8:30 p.m. Thursday at the Novato branch library.

Candidates, invited to speak, are Edward Brooks, design engineer; F. Wayne Sartain, incumbent, Gail Wilhelm, planning commissioner, and David E. Milano, heater and sheet metal firm owner.

A HOME MADE OF FOAM

Stuart Gordon displayed his new model home, called Ensculptic VII, yesterday in Dillon, Colo., and said he hopes to build triplex units at one-third the normal building cost and market the homes all over the world. Gordon's home is made of polyurethane. He believes curved surfaces in the home influence behavior.

Schloegel's Version Of Apartment Flap

Albert J. Schloegel, candidate for the Republican nomination in the Ninth Assembly District, yesterday offered his version of a dispute with the owners of his former apartment.

The Independent-Journal reported Thursday that he had been evicted from his Cotati apartment for nonpayment of two months rent totaling $310. Schloegel could not be reached then for comment.

He told the I-J yesterday the dispute stemmed from disagreement over a bill he submitted to the owners for extra maintenance work he had done for them. The I-J story, based on information supplied by the owners, failed to note that he had been the resident manager for the apartment project, Schloegel said.

Joyce Aisenbrey, manager of the Prime Property Co., which runs the apartments, confirmed there had been a dispute over a bill from Schloegel, but said small claims court had backed the company's claim for one of two months' rent. Separate court action will be taken to collect the other half of the $310, she said.

Schloegel moved to Rohnert Park.

Unruh Considering New Assembly Seat

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Former Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh says he is considering running for the newly created 45th Assembly District, consisting of the Hollywood area east of Beverly Hills.

"A lot of people have urged me to run, but that's about as far as I've gotten," Unruh told the Los Angeles Times yesterday.

28 Preschoolers Take Tests Under Project SEE

Twenty-eight preschool youngsters were screened for sight, hearing and speech problems at the first session of Project SEE on Saturday, staff members reported.

The clinic is co sponsored by the Marin Hearing and Speech Center at Marin General Hospital, hospital volunteers, the county schools office and county health officials.

The screening will be given each Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Prior appointments must be made by calling the hospital.

The screening is free but parents are asked to make a $5 donation if possible, to support the program.

Two years ago, the center tested 1,200 Marin County youngsters, and found 230 who needed help. Only about 1 per cent of the problems were uncorrectable, the center staff reported.

Council Rules No More Review Of Hilarita Project Is Needed

The Hilarita Housing project need not have its master plan approved again, the Tiburon City Council decided unanimously last night.

The action removed one of the last obstacles which could stall construction of the moderate-income housing development. The project already has been delayed for about six years because of federal funding delays and a lawsuit.

The 102-unit complex received a final commitment for a $2,682,000 loan from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development about a week ago.

However, the council said Tiburon's city attorney and lawyers for the Tiburon Ecumenical Association, which is building the project, must still determine whether or not Hilarita now needs an environmental impact report.

A new ruling from the California Attorney General's office has held that projects similar to Hilarita, involving more than five buildings on one parcel of land, constitute subdivisions and so require impact statements.

The council debated only briefly on the question of whether the project's master plan approvals had expired (since they were given two years ago) and needed to be renewed.

Mayor Branwell D. Fanning and Councilman Allan N. Littman, longtime foes of the project, reversed their previous stands and said the development had been under continuous review by the council since its start and needed no more formalities.

"It's not in the public interest to rehash this subject," said Littman. "It's about time we let it rest. It's divided the community for too long."

Fanning then presented a motion which said the council found the master plan acceptable and that no more review was needed.

After the vote, Councilman Albert H. Sennett said that if the attorneys decide an environmental impact report is needed, the ecumenical association should move quickly to have one done.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

SEQUOIA PACIFIC — Decided to consider the environmental impact report for the proposed Sequoia Pacific downtown development on March 4.

MOTORCYCLES — Agreed to post "private property" signs on Ridgelands to deter motorcyclists from the areas.

UNDERGROUNDING — Asked the city staff to look into undergrounding of electrical lines in the area of old St. Hilary's Church.

BICYCLES — Granted a six-month permit to Michael Katz to operate a bicycle rental business behind the El Borro restaurant on Juanita Lane.

PARADISE DRIVE PLANNING — Asked Supervisor Michael Wornum to appoint a citizens planning committee to study future land uses on the unincorporated side of the Tiburon Peninsula in the area of Paradise Drive. Councilman Sennett suggested the committee include both city and county residents.

TIBURON BOULEVARD IMPROVEMENTS — Set Feb. 19 for a special session on the city engineer's plans for improving the design of Tiburon Boulevard between Stewart Drive and Mar West Street.

TIBURON TOWNE — Returned to the planning commission a proposal from Herman D. Ruth Associates to build a 54-unit townhouse development in the area of Trestle Glen Boulevard. According to the city attorney, the planning commission failed to reach a decision on the environmental impact report and must do so before the council can discuss the project's master plan.

SECURITY GUARDS — Granted a business license to Stephen G. Glueck to operate a private security guard firm in the city.

CLOSED MEETING — Held a closed session to discuss possible condemnation of parcels of land which the city wishes to buy as open space.

Closed Meetings On Spending Our Money

Independent-Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
8 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, JANUARY 29, 1974 EDITORIAL PAGE

In this space yesterday, we mentioned how the increasing trend of legislative bodies toward doing their business in committee has largely nullified the public's right to know. Common Cause has just come out with a tabulation of U.S. House of Representatives committee meetings which emphasizes the situation.

The House last March adopted an open meetings rule as a result of widespread agitation in which Common Cause shared. The Senate has refused to adopt such a rule.

COMMON CAUSE reports with satisfaction that as a result of the new rule, 80 per cent of House committee meetings have been public. This, it says, is "in stark contrast to the Senate where secrecy continues to govern the conduct of all but a few committees."

The tabulation, however, shows that the closed committee meeting is by no means a thing of the past in the House.

The Appropriations Committee, where all appropriations bills originate, held only one open meeting during 1973, the tabulation shows. And it met behind closed doors 18 times.

Appropriations subcommittees did a little better, with eight open meetings — but 18 closed ones.

The Ways and Means Committee, another key committee since it must decide where and how money is to be raised, met in public 24 times — but behind closed doors 40 times.

The House Armed Services Committee, which is where the Pentagon must win initial approval for its spending of roughly $90 billion per year, opened its doors for 11 meetings but closed them for 10. And its subcommittees held exactly half their sessions behind closed doors — 15 open and 15 closed.

Bills to implement policies that bear on U.S. balance of payments and thereby on our cost-of-living inflation, must go through the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. It held 30 open meetings last year, but 13 closed sessions. Its subcommittees met in public 55 times and behind closed doors 19 times.

All 18 meetings of the House Administration Committee were closed.

Many of the committees, however, really lived up to the open-door policy. All meetings of the following committees and their subcommittees were open, according to Common Cause: Banking Currency, Education and Labor, Government Operations, Interior and Insular Affairs, Judiciary, Merchant Marine and Fisheries (except for one closed subcommittee session), Post Office and Civil Service, Public Works, Rules, Science and Astronautics. And the only meeting of the Internal Security Committee was open.

THE LIST itself suggests another difficulty in keeping abreast of what our government is going: There are so many committee meetings that, even when they are open, a large share are likely to get no coverage by the media and no exposure to the public.

The new House policy is an improvement. But as long as a majority of the sessions on major government spending are closed to the public, all of us continue to be denied our right to know how our own money is spent — money that is extracted from us under duress in the form of taxes.

"We'd like to lease your credibility gap for use as a storage facility."

Problems Remain In Mideast, But Accomplishments Significant

A proper awareness of the stony problems still to be overcome on the road to a final Middle East peace need not detract from awe at the achievements already won.

The truly amazing fact is that Israeli troops are beginning to move back out of their bridgehead on the Egyptian side of the Suez Canal, and Egypt's president, Anwar Sadat, is urging his oil-bearing Arab friends to relax their embargo on oil shipments to the United States.

Considering the intensity of the emotions which still existed only a few days ago in both Egypt and Israel (and which survive in Syria), one can only wonder with gratitude over the fact that Israeli officers are handling over maps of mine fields to Egyptian officers in preparation for the Egyptian takeover of the bridgehead. Peace is on the march in the Middle East.

OBVIOUSLY THAT MARCH can all too easily be interrupted.

King Faisal of Saudi Arabia seems to be having some problems about releasing any of his oil before all the conditions are met which he had publicly required during the days of the fighting. They included an Israeli surrender of the whole of the territories conquered by Israel in the 1967 war, including release of the old city of Jerusalem. Such requirements are not realistic at this time, if ever.

And the Syrians are having problems about even letting go a list of names of Israelis in their hands as prisoners of war. A hardline mood still is strong among Syrians. Emotionally, many of them would rather resume the fighting than begin to parley with the Israelis.

Back in Washington, Sec. of State Henry Kissinger has a problem. He has peace going, but can he keep up the momentum? Momentum is everything. If he can just keep it going he can hope to arrange a long series of moves which will take him and the Middle East states to a happy plateau of peaceful co-existence between Arabs and Israelis.

Beyond that is a shimmering dream of real cooperation, even reaching the point of a common market and perhaps, still farther along, some form of political federation. But that is all a very long way off and perhaps years or decades after stable co-existence. And even that depends right now on some oil flowing, and first steps to disengagement of the armed forces on the Syrian front.

ONE IMMEDIATE obstacle is a deep suspicion among the hawks of Israel that Prime Minister Golda Meir has been secretly high-pressured by Kissinger into abandoning positions they think are vital to Israel's survival. Another is suspicion in Washington that Kissinger may have made secret committments to Israelis and/or Arabs which may come home to roost at some future time.

There are as yet unpublished documents covering the numbers and types of troops and weapons to be maintained in the new zones to be set up in the Sinai desert.

There also may well be some form of commitment to Israel, although it has always been taken for granted in all foreign offices the world around that the U.S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean is there primarily to guarantee security of Israel.

There also could be some new American commitment to Egypt that Washington will not again give Israel the kind of offensive weapons used in the surge across the Suez Canal in the last round of fighting.

But the likelihood is that most of this is tacit rather explicit and that Kissinger is counting on momentum rather than documentation. Each time a new step is taken, it opens up the possibility of a further step, and of all these steps the first is the hardest.

That vital first one was taken when Israeli troops began to pull back across the Suez Canal — and two days early at that.

MARQUIS CHILDS: Ford Begins The Circuit

WASHINGTON — When the roof fell in on Vice President Gerald R. Ford following his speech to the American Farm Bureau Federation in Atlantic City, his first reaction was one of surprise. He had not known that two hours after he spoke technical experts would report to John J. Sirica that five and perhaps nine erasures occurred in the 18 minutes of a critical tape.

He is quick to add that he should have known. But lest there be any doubt that he might have recoiled with the criticism, he gave a pledge of allegiance to the president at a hastily called press conference. The theme was the president's innocence.

TRACING THE ORIGINS of the controversial speech, Ford says that when he was in Vail, Colo., on his Christmas skiing vacation, he read the weekly releases of the AFL-CIO demanding Nixon's impeachment.

He decided the time had come to reply to what he called in the speech "powerful pressure organizations" waging a massive propaganda campaign against the president.

From Vail, he phoned the White House to get help in preparing the kind of speech he wanted to give since he has no speech writers on his own staff. Until June 30 and a new budget, he is existing on what former Vice President Spiro Agnew left behind, and the Agnew budget was cut 25 per cent.

GERALD R. FORD
Building own fences

Borrowing speech writers from the White House stable of five or six is a problem, since the Ford schedule is jammed. The other evening when his wife saw the dates for February, she gave him hell. Mrs. Ford had hopes that his present post would be less demanding in travel and speech than that of minority leader of the House.

HIS OWN SAMPLING confirms the latest polls showing that a majority of Americans are opposed to impeachment although they may want the president to resign.

Knowing the House after nine years as Republican leader, the vice president believes an impeachment resolution would be defeated today by as much as three to one.

As the vice president sees it, the Nixon-Ford rapport could not be better. The president is living up to every pledge he made when he tapped Ford to fill the vacant office. The vice president presides over sessions of the Domestic Council, he participates in meetings of the National Security Council, and is ready to go on White House assignments on short notice.

At present, no foreign travel is in prospect. His concentration will be on politics at home. As the congressional campaign gets going, Ford will be stumping across the country in one congressional district after another.

ONE OF HIS FIRST dates in February is in Johnstown, Pa., where he will speak for the Republican candidate, Harry M. Fox, to fill the vacancy left by the death of Rep. John P. Saylor. This is a swing district with a preponderance of Democratic registration and the election on Feb. 5 will be a test of Republican strength.

Ford says he intends to stress the positive achievements of the Nixon administration, particularly in foreign policy, rather than attack the Democrats. He is all-out in his praise of Sec. of State Henry A. Kissinger and the success of his shuttle diplomacy in the Middle East.

Although he does not rule out the possibility that at some future time he will again take on the "powerful pressure organizations" waging, as he charges, a campaign to impeach the president, this is not presently in view. He means to try to be the man for all seasons, a unifying force. If the Farm Bureau speech was a mistake, as many even friendly critics are saying, it will not soon be repeated.

THE WORD THAT inevitably falls into place with Ford is sincere. Although they agree with virtually no exception on basic issues, nevertheless the Nixon political style and the Ford political style could hardly be more different. Ford is the solid citizen from Grand Rapids, Mich., offering a prescription of calm and stability.

Moving across the country in the congressional campaign, he will be building up political capital with the Republican regulars who run the party. That was the Nixon pattern after the president moved to the East in 1963. The investment in time and energy on the mashed potato circuit led to the Nixon convention triumph of 1968.

Moretti Missed Learning The Wisdom Of Aesop

By EARL G. WATERS

It begins to appear that Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti was what is popularly termed today a "disadvantaged child." For his present conduct indicates he grew up without the benefit of learning some of Aesop's fables.

Having made it known he will seek the governorship this year, he persists in hanging on to the speakership. The fable he missed is about the dog crossing the bridge with a bone. Thinking his reflection another dog with a larger bone, he attempted to grab it away from the other dog — and lost his own bone.

There are also some homilies such as wearing two hats or trying to carry water on both shoulders which he seems to have overlooked in his rapid rise in politics.

He came to the legislature in 1965 at the tender age of 29 and six years later was elected speaker. With the legislature running full time year around, the duties of that job require one's undivided attention. For in addition to presiding over the house, he must assign all bills to the proper committees and provide leadership necessary to solve the problems of the state.

And it is not like the state doesn't have problems. There has not been a time since the great depression years that California has been confronted with so many of such serious import. Unemployment alone calls for the wisdom of Solomon and the strength of Hercules if it is to be overcome. The energy crisis, to say nothing of many other shortages, presents monumental task. These are new and urgent matters. But there are a multitude of other unsolved problems screaming for solution which have been dragging around all through Moretti's reign as speaker. Increasing crime rates, tax reform, urban renewal, ways of providing adequate medical care, and the always-present needs of education are some of the more important ones.

On the other hand, being a candidate for governor in a state with 20 million people spread over a vast area also requires full-time effort.

Confronted with the mamoth requirements of either undertaking, it should be clear even to Moretti that no one person can do both at the same time successfully.

But his persistence in hanging on to the speakership despite his decreasing interest serves to keep out of the leadership position someone who might be better able to deal with matters. This suggests another of Aesop's fables, the one about the dog in the manger.

Lacking the statesmanship to realize that his continuance as speaker only serves to thwart the best interests of the people, he should at least be politically astute enough to know that this will become an issue of increasing importance the longer he holds out.

Already there is great suspicion that he is using members of his staff, paid state employes, in his campaign efforts. The very fact that, for the first time in history the speaker is maintaining multiple offices strategically located in San Francisco, San Diego and Los Angeles, fosters such thoughts. One can well ask why the speaker, whose duties are full-time in Sacramento, needs any office other than one at the capitol.

If it is not illegal to use employes paid with public funds in behalf of one's political campaign, it should be. And, legal or not, it is certainly unfair to other aspirants for the same office.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Slow Growth Wins Bay Area Recognition

We were deeply gratified with your report of the Grossi Dairy Farm in the "Marin Living" section of Jan. 19 issue of the Independent-Journal.

Mr. Grossi is quoted as saying, "The environmentalists have helped us . . . they like to keep the land open." This farm was saved by the Land Preserve Act. The report continues, "Unlike many other parts of the state, spreading urbanization and high taxes won't force him out."

People in Marin are becoming aware of the necessity of conserving "open space" in and around their communities. This can only be done by maintaining a slow natural growth of population. It is this slow growth which has given the Bay Area this national recognition for sound and well-planned development.

Agrees That "Wee Pals' Is Not Comic Strip

I am compelled to respond to Marjorie C. MacDonald, who chooses to attack the person of O. K. Simms re the comic strip "Wee Pals." Obviously, she prefers name-calling and innuendos to facing facts.

I agree with Simms, the comic strip is not comic and appears to have as its only motive a racial message.

Objects To Winery Application Report

After reading your article of Jan. 23 concerning the (San Anselmo City) Council meeting about Mr. Dye's champagne operation, I must say that to those of us involved (neighbors), the article is very slanted.

For one thing, only one neighbor feared vomit and shoot-outs, not the whole neighborhood. Most of San Anselmo Avenue is very well kept and desirable.

At the meeting Mr. Dye requested more than just the 30 cases of champagne sold only to friends and neighbors. He also wants to sell wine commercially.

Most of us do not want a commercial business in a residential area. How would you like a winery next door to you, Mr. Stewart? How would it affect the value of your property and enviornment?

I find myself not afraid of violence or fearful neighbors but of reporters who choose what they want people to know.

CAPITOL QUIPS

By PHIL DESSAUER

There's one White House tape that hasn't been lost, misplaced or gapped. It's the one that says, "I won't resign . . . I won't resign . . ."

Recent Senate hearings have shown several lawmakers are already keen for instant impeachment — of the oil industry.

Henry Kissinger says there are no secret guarantees in the Middle East. That may turn out to be his first important failure.

Motorists who own big gas-guzzlers have one advantage now. They don't have to worry about locking their cars on the street.

ART BUCHWALD

Ah! The Injustice Of It All! Nobody Loves An Oil Baron

WASHINGTON — "Doctor, my name is Charles Dividend, and I am president of the Windfall Oil Co. of New Jersey."

"Yes, I was expecting you. You told your regular doctor you wanted to see a psychiatrist. Would you care to sit in a chair or lie down on the couch?"

"I'll liedown on the couch."

"What seems to be the problem Mr. Dividend?"

"PEOPLE ARE SAYING terrible things about me. Everywhere I go they call me names like profiteer and price gouger and Mr. Ripoff. I can't take it any more, doctor."

"When did this paranoia start?"

"It's not paranoia! I was up in front of a Senate committee last week and they treated me like a criminal. I'm president of one of the largest oil companies in the world. I personally gave $100,000 to Nixon's campaign. I'm a great American and I think I should be treated with a little respect."

"I see. Would you like a Kleenex?"

"No, thank you. Everyone is mad at me because I wouldn't sell any oil to the U.S. Navy during the Arab embargo. But what would you do, doctor, if the king of Saudi Arabia said you couldn't give any oil to the United States. After all, he's a king."

"YOU SOUND AS IF you're carrying around a certain amount of guilt, Mr. Dividend."

"I have nothing to be guilty about, doctor. I've done a damn good job. My company has provided cheap and abundant energy through aggressive competition. We have spawned tremendous economic growth in this country and have made America the greatest country in the free world."

"Then why do you need a psychiatrist?"

"I can't remember anything."

"Could you be a little more specific?"

"WELL, THE OTHER DAY I went up on the Hill to testify before a congressional committee. They asked me how much profit we had made during the energy crisis and I couldn't for the life of me come up with the figure. Then they asked me how much we had paid out to our stockholders and my mind went blank. They also wanted to know how much taxes we had contributed to the United States, and I just stared at them."

"It seems to me, Mr.Dividend, that you appear to have a block about profits."

"I never did in the past, doctor. Before the energy crisis I could reel off every figure in our annual company report by heart. Now I can't even remember how much oil we're refining in a month."

"AMNESIA IS NOT unusual in the oil business, Mr. Dividend."

"That's easy for you to say, doctor. But how would you like it if 200 million people thought you were cashing in on a crisis, when, in fact, all you're trying to do is get a decent return on your capital?"

"You feel that there are 200 million people in this country talking behind your back?"

"I know it, doctor. When I walk down the street, people start chanting, 'Windfall, Windfall, hey, hey, hey, How much did you raise our gas today?'"

"Perhaps they're jealous because you have a depletion allowance and they don't. Mr. Dividend, you can't be an oil baron and also expect to be loved."

"I can't?"

"WELL, ACTUALLY, it's too early to say. I think we have to have a few more sessions before we come to any definite conclusions. What about coming in on Tuesday at 3 o'clock?"

"Thank you, doctor, you've been a big help to me. How much do I owe you?"

"That will be $40 for the hour."

"Okay. Can you change a $1,000 bill?"

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By FRANK FARRARA

Novato, Like All Teen-Agers, Rebels At Parental Authority

The City of Novato recently celebrated its 14th birthday, plunging ahead in its teen-age years.

In the manner of adolescents it has been rebelling against the authoirty of "Big Daddy"; in this case, Marin County.

Through a governmental leak, we have learned that son Novato and father Marin were called in recently for municipal family counseling by the Local Agency Formation Commission.

Son Novato — I'm sick and tired of having him run my life. I'm old enough to take care of myself.

Father Marin — What the heck do you want? I let you incorporate, didn't I? You've got your own police department and everything.

Referee — Now, son, you have to think of all the experience father Marin has in government . . . planning, building roads.

Son Novato — That's what I'm talking about. Have you seen the roads he built around Novato?

Father Marin — You haven't built any engineering marvels yourself, sonny boy.

REFEREE — Wait a minute! Recriminations aren't going to help. You two have to cooperate.

Father Marin — That's what I keep telling this kid, but he's getting too big for his jurisdiction. He even wants to have control over Hamilton Air Force Base. Can you imagine that?

Son Novato — He never lets me do anything. The base is in my area and I should be in charge of it.

Father Marin — You know darn well that base is for the whole county. You're not old enough to handle it.

Son Novato — Gee whiz, you're always picking on me. You never yell at Sausalito.

REFEREE — is that true, Father Marin? Are you showing favoritism among cities?

Father Marin — Not at all. I fight with all of them.

Son Novato — Then how come you're planning to put all the low-cost housing in my area, like you did before I was born?

Father Marin — You're the most suspicious city I ever had. Sometimes you make me wish they had planned parenthood for cities.

Son Novato — I don't care. I'll secede and start my own county, North Marin.

REFEREE — Now hold up there, son! You know your Uncle Lafco wouldn't like that.

Father Marin — I don't know what's gotten into that boy. When I was his age, I didn't have a planning department of my own and now he's even got a general plan of his own.

Referee — Don't forget your father, too, has a general plan, and I'm sure you two can work together in planning.

Son Novato — Not unless I'm in charge of growth control in North Marin.

Father Marin — There he goes again. I've got a mind to restrict him to the city limits until he learns to respect his elders.

Referee — Gentlemen, I think I have a solution to your problem: — A City and County of Marin.

Historical Sites Being 'Obliterated'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's historic and cultural sites, including ancient Indian burial grounds and early frontier settlements, are being "obliterated" at a rate of more than 1,500 a year, a state commission said yesterday.

The State Archeological, Historical and Paleontological Task Force, created by the legislature in 1971, said in an annual report:

It said an "estimated 1,400 archaeological sites, 200 historic places and an undetermined number of Indian cemeteries are annually obliterated by urban growth, water projects, highway construction, agriculture and vandalism."

The report also said the many laws intended to safeguard heritage values "are largely ineffective because of public ignorance regarding the worth of heritage remains and minimal efforts on the part of public agencies to enforce these statutes."

Heritage interpretive facilities in California "are woefully inadequate," it added.

California has no archaeological accreditation program, the report said, anyone, regardless of qualifications, "may call himself an archaeologist and legally dig into the fast disappearing prehistoric sites in the state."

The report called for the establishment of a state agency to coordinate and streamline the state's heritage program.

"There is an urgent need to generate statewide guidelines and strategies for the long range management, preservation and interpretation of California's cultural resources," it said.

Included in the examples listed by the report as archaeological destruction sites were:

Construction of the Indio bypass on Interstate 10 in Riverside County, destroying a village on the now extinct Blake Sea, settled thousands of years ago.

A Marin County enterpreneur spent the early 1960s bulldozing local Indian mounds to sell the material as "top soil."

A complex village site which once occupied both sides of a creek at Paradise Cove in the Santa Monica Mountains in Los Angeles County was lost when it was sold to a trailer park developer.

The destruction of a vast village and burial ground site near French Camp Slough, San Joaquin County, because of construction of Interstate 5.

Liner Mariposa Cited For Smoke

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The liner Mariposa was cited by the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District Sunday after the vessel sent plumes of black smoke over San Francisco Bay for 20 minutes.

The vessel, owned by Pacific Far East Lines, was cited for violation of regulations permitting ships in port to emit smoke for only three minutes an hour.

An inspector for the district said the ship's engineer blamed the excessive smoke on poor combustion in the vessel's engine. The shipping line could be fined a maximum of $500.

AUTO LICENSE RENEWAL RUSH IS ON

Long lines crowd the Department of Motor Vehicles office in Corte Madera, as auto owners rush to beat the 5 p.m. Friday deadline for getting 1974 license tags. Orin Riley, manager of the office, said yesterday was the first real crowd of the year. By the deadline, about 100,000 new tags will be issued. Riley said car owners may mail in their renewals to Corte Madera, so long as the letter is postmarked before midnight Friday.

Reinecke Sees Rationing Harm

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A proposed federal gasoline rationing system of 30 gallons per month per driver's license would "seriously cripple" California, Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke said yesterday.

Reinecke, chairman of the state Energy Planning Council, said in a telegram to federal energy chief William Simon that most Californians consume more than 30 gallons each month just traveling to and from work.

"I urge you to consider another form of rationing which would treat each state on a more realistic, individual basis, rather than to make the assumption that all areas of the nation are the same," Reinecke said.

Gas Tanks Must Be Half Empty

PUNTA GORDA, Fla. (UPI) — The Charlotte County Commission passed an ordinance yesterday banning gasoline sales for any car with more than a half-tank of fuel in efforts to stop panic buying on Florida's lower Gulf Coast.

The Punta Gorda City Commission passed a similar ordinance Sunday.

Gerald Hood Quits GOP Committee

Mill Valley City Councilman Gerald J. Hood, who has said he will announce shortly for the state Assembly, has resigned his seat on the Marin County Republican Central Committee.

He announced his resignation in a letter to Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. Hood, who plans to seek the assemblyman's seat, has served as Bagley's alternate on the central committee for more than a year.

Hood said the action was prompted by Bagley's expected endorsement of A. Alan Hill as the Republican candidate for the Assembly seat. Bagley does not intend to run for another term in the Assembly. Instead, he is seeking the state controller's job.

Search Halted

NORTH BEND, Wash. (UPI) — The search for two young girls buried by a thunderous snow avalanche was called off yesterday.

Corte Madera Youths Suspected In Blazes

Two Corte Madera youths have been arrested on suspicion of starting three fires near a shopping center east of Highway 101, police reported today.

The two 15-year-old boys were arrested near 36 Granada Drive early Saturday morning following three blazes between 11:45 p.m. Friday and 12:14 a.m. Saturday.

The fires were in a trash can at the Bourbon Shop, 5641 Paradise Drive; in a trash bin behind Le Tonneau restaurant, 5625 Paradise Drive; and in a newspaper rack at the Paradise Rexall Pharmacy, 5633 Paradise Drive.

Police stopped the two youths shortly after the final fire and found one carrying matches, firecrackers, a substance believed to be marijuana and a hashish pipe.

One youth was referred to county juvenile authorities on suspicion of arson, possession of narcotics and possession of narcotic paraphernalia. The other was turned over to Corte Madera juvenile officers on suspicion of arson.

Station Owner Gives Away Gas

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Kenneth Davis gave away 9,000 gallons of gasoline Monday at his service station —119 gallons of it to one man.

With police directing traffic, it took just two hours and 58 minutes to pump out the fuel, including the 119 gallons to one customer who filed up his camper truck, family car, boat, two motorcycles and some cans.

The Internal Revenue Service had said Davis owed the public $4,500 because he had overcharged by three cents a gallon.

British Author H. E. Bates Dies

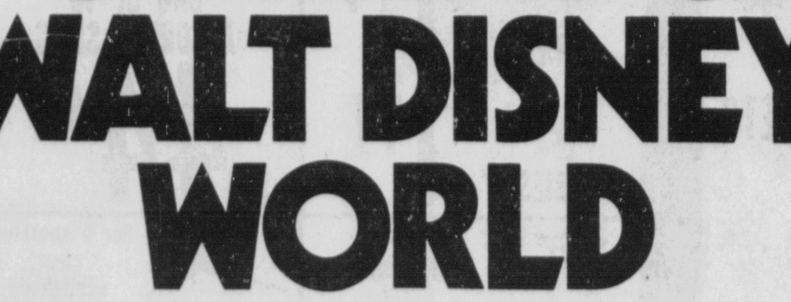

CANTERBURY, England (UPI) — H. E. Bates, novelist, playwright and short story writer who sang the praises of English country life and wrote of the horror of war, died at a Canterbury hospital today. He was 68.

Herbert Ernest Bates, who never used his first names, wrote more than 50 books and a mass of other material. His best-known works included the wartime "Fair Stood the Wind for France," the lumpish Larkin family of "The Darling Buds of May," which became "The Mating Game" for an American movie, and "Triple Echo," which was also filmed.

Bates' last work was a three-volume autobiography, finished late in 1972. He leaves a widow, two sons and two daughters.

PEGGY ADAMS and Val, her quarterhorse gelding, are eager to begin the season of riding with the Tamalpais Trail Riders. Mrs. Adams is the new president of the organization, following in her father's footsteps.

Trail Riders Leader Carries On Tradition

By BETTY FROST

In accepting the presidency of the Tamalpais Trail Riders, Mrs. Margaret M. Adams of Mill Valley is carrying on a family tradition. Her father, the late E. Carol Jackson, was president of the riders in 1946.

"The trails of Tamalpais are a heritage richer than rubies," Peggy Adams' father said. "How right he was," Mrs. Adams agreed. "We appreciate more and more the water district riding trails on Mount Tam. As an organization we do all we can to maintain the trails. We also foster good relations with hikers who enjoy open space, too, so that we can all enjoy what we have. I hope we never have to move away from Marin in order to enjoy horses."

One of the first events of the season for the horsemen is a clean-up ride on Mar. 24. This will be a combined clean-up ride for the Southern Marin Horsemen's Association of Mill Valley, Los Vaqueros of Fairfax and the Tamalpais Trail Riders.

"We try to keep the trails in good shape and free of debris. If one of our riders lets us know there is a tree down across the trail, or other obstruction, we take care of it. We have a special fund set aside for this purpose," Mrs. Adams said.

PEGGY ADAMS came to Mill Valley with her parents, former residents of Canada, as a child in the 1930s. Her father started Jackson's Pet Control Co. of Marin.

By the time Peggy was 7, she was taking riding lessons at the old Mill Valley Riding Academy in Homestead Valley. The family bought their own horses when she was 11. She attended Park School in Mill Valley, Tamalpais High School and the College of Marin.

Competing for her interest in horses was a love of music. An accomplished violinist, she played in the high school orchestra. She still enjoys music and attends concerts whenever she can.

Her marriage to Peter R. Adams, an Englishman, ended in divorce 16 years ago. There are two Adams children, Carole, 19, who attends the College of Marin, and Mark, 22, assistant to Phil Ernst, who operates Marin Stables in Fairfax.

Fifteen years ago Mrs. Adams turned her knowledge of horses into a small one-horse business, teaching children to ride.

"I think it is important that new riders learn to handle their horses. I teach them the safety rules, knot tying, how to saddle and groom their horses. Most of my students begin at 6 or 7 years of age."

OCCASIONALLY an adult will ask for her help. One was a woman doctor who was going to Afghanistan, where she would spend a week riding horses or mules. The traveler wanted to know something about riding. After a little instruction she handled the riding well on her trip and often returns to Mill Valley to ride with Mrs. Adams.

On the property, which has been in her family for 40 years, Mrs. Adams keeps three horses, and has three other horses pastured nearby. There are also dogs, a cat, chickens and a South American macao. She hauls the hay herself and cares for the animals throughout the year.

She was a charter member of the Southern Marin Horseman's Association when it was founded 15 years ago and is a past president of that organization.

Mrs. Adams has frequently been a judge for trail tests, tests for horse and rider over natural terrain with natural obstacles, for safety and good practice. She won the senior division of Tamalpais Trail Riders Trail test two years ago.

For the 125 members of the trail riders, 10 rides are planned this season, plus barbecues, a breakfast ride and horse show exercises at the Meadow Club stables. Family memberships are popular and many families ride together, said Mrs. Adams.

The one great lack she sees in Marin is proper stabling. "We have a great need for more room for animals to be kept, and good care for them," Mrs. Adams said.

The Number Of Women Alcoholics Climbs In U.S.

In recent years, women have accounted for the largest increase in the U.S. drinking problem and, according to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, there are more than two million female alcoholics.

Ten years ago women represented 20 per cent of the alcoholic population. Now they account for 25 per cent and the figure is rising rapidly, reports Judith Ramsey in an article in the February issue of Family Circle magazine. Actual incidence is probably much higher than figures show, the author states.

The first, most crucial step in treatment is for the woman alcoholic to admit her condition and seek help, the article states.

Date Packages In Your Freezer

For freezer storage home economists for General Mills suggest dating and listing each food then using it before quality and flavor deteriorate.

Keep the freezer filled for economy to conserve power and to insulate food in case of power failure.

For refrigerator storage, the opposite is true. Do not crowd food; allow space for cold air to circulate. Condiments, such as catsup and mustard, need no refrigeration. Soft drinks can be chilled just before serving, leaving room for cooked leftovers, which should be covered and stored immediately.

Line them up together, all on one shelf, where you can review them daily and use while they are still good.

New Costume

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

She'd Like To Help A Fellow She Digs Who's Deep In Drugs

RAP:

A guy I really dig dates this other girl to get something I won't let him have. Guess again. It's — pot, pills, etc.

He told me he doesn't like her, but she gives him any kind of drug he wants, and he's getting into them pretty deep. Not the heavy stuff yet, but that may happen if he keeps on with her.

She sells, and I'm afraid she'll get him into selling. If I turn her in, he'll probably get arrested too. I couldn't go to their parents.

How can I help a 16-year-old guy who thinks it's cool to do dope? — STILL HOPING

DEAR HOPING:

When a friend is in danger, you call for help, right? This boy is in danger — and so is his supplier. So tell someone — a counselor you can trust, a relative, the family doctor, perhaps — who will get the word to their parents. It won't be easy, but if you're truly concerned, you can't just sit there and watch someone go off the deep end, can you? — HELEN

S.H.:

Maybe if you told this guy you can't just sit and watch him get heavy into drugs, and that you must talk to somebody about it, he may pull out before you have that talk.

Sometimes it only takes a girl's deep concern to put a boy straight — especially if he likes her. — SUE

DEAR RAP:

I heard that if you put a stamp on an envelope upside down it means you want to make out with the person you send the letter to. Is this right? And if you put the stamp in the left hand lower corner it's an even bigger invitation, like "Here I am, come and get me."

Is this true? —SAY IT WITH STAMPS?

DEAR SIWS:

Sorry, I never heard of this "Post Office game." — SUE

DEAR S:

. . .Nor have I. Since about a quarter of my letters carry upside-down stamps, (I glue 'em as they lay, and hurriedly), I hope my correspondents haven't heard the rumor either! — HELEN

RAP:

I've never written to a column before, but that letter from Kathy and Steve of Belmar really got me upset. They say the under-21 crowd can't handle liquor just because they went to a discotheque where one girl was sick, and later their car was rammed by a teen-ager. How many people over 21 get stinkin' drunk? My car was demolished by a 45-year-old man coming home from a bar. (And I had a hard time proving it wasn't my fault —because I'm a teen driver yet!)

I live in a state where the majority age is 18, and I can't say it has caused more drunk teen-agers. I will soon be moving to a state where you can't legally have liquor until you're 21. How silly, when that same state allows 18-year-olds to vote, be drafted, marry without consent, get into legal contracts. But they're not mature enough to take a drink!

It's a weird feeling, to cross a state line and know that you're not an adult any more, but an 18-year-old juvenile. Hope all states will soon follow the example of New York, Minnesota, New Jersey, Wisconsin, Iowa, Hawaii, to name a few, and let us have full adulthood. — M.T.B.

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902. if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.

DESIGN FOR PEOPLE

There Are Many Cures For Shortage Of Storage Space

By EMILY MALINO
Distributed by United Feature Syndicate

Have you ever known anyone who had enough storage space? I believe this is one of the chronic problems of contemporary architecture. People are more affluent and buy more things, but there is less and less room for storing them.

Older houses were geared to have and to hold generations of hand-me-downs, mementos and just plain junk. There were attics and cellars in those days, with spacious closets and shelves and cedar closets for out-of-season clothing.

Those easy days disappeared with the one-story or split-level housing we're accustomed to seeing today. So - we have to be ingenious and use new ideas for storage in every room in the house.

If you look carefully, you'll find dozens of ideal spaces for extra storage. Look overhead. There's at least a foot of ample shelf space above every door in your house. There's often another generous strip of space for shelves between the door and the closet in almost any bedroom; over-bed storage, moreover, is a glorious way to use walls for books or art or records.

But most of all I like to use that forgotten site: under-the-window wall space. Most houses and apartments use stock height 5-foot-high windows, set into the 8-foot high walls about 1 foot or 18 inches below the ceiling. This leaves about 30 or 36 inches between the sill and the floor, a marvelous location for continuous storage space.

First of all, because the average storage unit is usually approximately 30 inches high. Secondly, because having a continuous surface under the sill makes a convenient stopping place for any window treatment you might want; if you don't want to invest in expensive and complex window coverings, a 30-inch-high storage wall makes even the most informal window covering look important and correct.

In a small bedroom, I used an arrangement of inexpensive storage units below two windows. These are drawer units that one buys unfinished in various modular sizes, so that you can easily get a wall-to-wall look with just elementary arithmetic.

If you want to splurge, add a continuous counter of plastic laminate in a contrasting color for a smoother look.

In the room I worked on, there was central air conditioning, eliminating the usual apartment-house heating-cooling convector. But if you have this unbeautiful beast, line up your storage units on either side, trying to match the height and depth of the existing convector. By surrounding it, you minimize it.

I hung two inexpensive tortoise bamboo shades in the conventional windows, roughly the same color as the storage units which came in a simple, natural lacquered finish. If you buy the unfinished variety, you can paint them to match the window shades, or stain and varnish them yourself.

The insides of these bountiful bureaus add immeasurable storage to two ordinary-sized bureaus and the top can be a convenient resting place for plants or flowers, serving afternoon tea, or books, records and a tiny television set. In other words, a very handy space in today's spaceless homes.

Nostalgia The Thing In Fashions

PARIS (UPI) — Despite the grim world economic outlook, the Paris spring-summer high fashion shows opened yesterday on a wave of nostalgia for the clothes of another recession era, the 1930s.

European buyers turned out in force but American buyers were in small numbers, although the U.S. dollar now buys more in France than last season, garment industry officials said.

"We're not pessimistic. We're in a limited market not affected by economic crisis as other industries," said Jacques Rouet, director of the Dior salon.

Designer Pierre Balmain said, "Couture is a hand industry that doesn't need oil."

THIS SEASON the clothes are back to the depression-hit days of the 1930s — hat pins, long beads and pearls, short, waved hair, white powder and turbans, midi skirts.

The Jean Louis Scherrer show caught the long, soft look of the 30s without falling into the trap of resembling the late, late movies on television.

The Scherrer girls wore small brimmed cloche felts or crocheted caps pulled over one eye with a hat pin glistening on the side. Their short hair was in marcelled waves. For late day or evening, Carmen Miranda turbans had attached scarves that wound around the neck.

The daytime look at Scherrer was long, mannish tailored jackets with broad shoulders over pleated midi skirts or soft, silk pleated dresses.

COATS WITH matching skirts — a fashion not seen for years — were revived in pale pin-stripes and teamed with long, v-neck, sleeveless tennis sweaters. Some coats had matching trousers but the show centered more on dresses or skirts.

For late day, the girls floated out in bias-cut dresses with diagonal pleating, long flowing scarves, low slung belts. Crepe georgette and crepe de chine were back in pale lemon, lime, honey or white.

Camisole necklines or plunging V-necks added to the lingerie look. Long strands of beads and-or long scarves of ostrich feathers were dyed to match the subtle colors of the dresses. Hemlines ranged from under the knee to ankle length.

And inside Valentino's salon in Rome, the designer was telling women to turn the clock back to the 1940s and Italy's First Lady led the applause.

Vittoria Leone, the fashion-conscious wife of Italy's president, watched from a front row seat as Valentino presented an homage to Hollywood's heyday.

He did it with tent coats over skirts that hugged the hips and then broke into a flare, with long silk scarves knotted at the neck of chiffon blouses, with high-heeled, open-toed shoes and with hair curling around deep, rounded pillbox hats.

HIS OUTFITS were monotones of beige or white or white combined with navy blue, Chinese red or lemon yellow. He also put beige and dusky pink together in prints of overblown roses and leaves that looked more like autumn than spring.

The leaf, his emblem for the season, hung as white enameled bangles from belts of gold tubing.

Daytime skirts were two to three inches over the knee.

Breaking with his own decree that pants weren't high fashion, Valentino showed two pants suits, one in white and one in navy. The pants of pleated silk shantung went with three-quarter length tent jackets and striped silk shirts.

Burner Reflector Pans Need Cleaning

Reflector pans under burners on the top of the stove should be washed frequently in hot sudsy water. Remove burned on particles with a plastic or nylon scraper, suggests the Soap and Detergent Association.

Following this regimen regularly will help keep the range shiny and working efficiently.

NOT RUINED BY PRACTICE

Nonmarching Band To Toot Once Again

By JEFF GREER

If you have trouble getting Junior to get down to serious practicing on the piano or bassoon or whatever musical instrument he's supposed to learn, for heaven's sake don't take him to the concert at Dominican College tomorrow night.

One exposure to the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District Non Marching Band and he'll be ruined for life.

That's one outfit that firmly believes that music is for fun. The band's members have been having fun for 16 years. They play for themselves. If the audience enjoys it, that's fine. If the audience doesn't, that's fine too. The band enjoys it anyway.

One thing's sure: even the most hardened, veteran, sleeper-through-concerts won't be able to doze through tomorrow night's rousing concert. It will begin more or less at 8 o'clock in Angelico Hall at the college in San Rafael. Admission is free.

Conducter of the nonmarching band is Joseph S. Curatilo, a barrel-chested, bouncy music lover who may have inherited his enthusiam for sounds and rhythm from his Sicilian ancestors.

The only stringent rule for the band is, "we won't march."

The only time the band participates in parades is when it rides.

The last time it performed in the Novato Western Weekend parade, the band played from two trucks, driven abreast down the street. The brass oomped from one float and the rest tootled from the other, with Curatilo figuratively astride the two like Ben Hur managing a chariot team.

"It's a very loose knit organization," Curatilo fondly explained at last night's dress rehearsal. "I may have used the words 'practice at home' three times in all the years we've been playing."

The band nominally has about 70 members who pay $5 a year to finance buying the music, and the coffee and refreshments that come during the break in Monday night rehearsals. About 30 show up on any given Monday night.

During the day conductor Curatilo is music coordinator for the Dixie School District. The band's weekly practice sessions are held in the Vallecito School.

The whole thing started when seven amateur musicians decided to play Christmas carols in the Terra Linda-Marinwood-Las Gallinas area. From there it grew. Four of the original members still are active, still-refusing to march, still having fun.

They decided on the unique name because "we were all hooked into the same sewer." The sanitary district, after weighty deliberation, granted use of the name, but with the strict understanding that it would in no way be financially or otherwise liable for the musical aggregation.

The band decided to adopt the old-fashioned "whitewing" streetcleaner's smock as its uniform. A San Rafael doctor won a contest by designing the band's coat of arms, which consists of a broom and a plumber's friend crossed on a white field.

The contest winner never collected the prize he wanted — a band performance while he christened his new yacht. The boat was too small to hold the band, without sinking, Curatilo recalled.

A Terra Linda housewife whose four youngsters studied in Curatilo's classes, she mentioned to Curatilo four years ago that she had a lifelong dream of learning to play the harp.

Encouraged by Curatilo, she said she "hunted for six weeks before I could even find a harp."

Mrs. Peer nervously insisted last night that "I'm just an advanced beginner" — but chattered enthusiastically about the intricacies of her huge, gilded instrument as it sat in a spotlight.

"I didn't even know a harp had pedals until I got to my first lesson," Mrs. Peek confessed. But her touch on the strings in two classical numbers drew applause from the other musicians.

Typically, last night's dress rehearsal didn't exactly follow the program because the band's two drummers couldn't get there in time to open with the "King Cotton March." So, the band first played its classical Handel number, with the brass coming on like Gabriel's host whenever Curatilo looked their way.

The rock drummer who'll also solo tomorrow couldn't get to rehearsal at all — neither could the piccolo player who'll star in the finale "Stars and Stripes Forever." The band had fun with their numbers, anyway.

And in "Bossa Nova Holiday," the group suddenly evoked memories of the huge, brassy name bands of the 30s and 40s.

For years, in addition to its Christmas serenades and free concerts in Marin, the band has taken its "Atlantic Tour" annually to play at Sea Ranch.

What if it's invited to the Pinole Music Festival and Bass Derby, or the Chowchilla Chili and Barbecue Stampede?

The players might lapse into practicing at home, and then who'd set an example for Junior?

MIMES COMING TO MARIN

The husband and wife mime team of Robert Shields and Lorene Yarnell will appear in concert at the Marin Veterans' Memorial Building Feb. 13 at 8 p.m. The performance will benefit the Marin Youth In Arts school concert program.

Mill Valley Board Approves Year-Round School Calendar

The Mill Valley School District board last night approved a calendar which it will use if the district opens a year-round school.

Supt. Peter Palches said the board voted unanimously for a 45-15 calendar which means that students would be in school for nine weeks and then off for three weeks. This cycle of school days and vacations would repeat itself several times during the school year.

Dottie Book, chairman of the district's year-round school committee, presented the details of the proposed calendar and also asked the district to survey parents to see if they favor having a year-round school for their children.

The board approved a questionnaire on the subject, Palches said, and asked that it be sent to parents of children in all district schools.

Also last night, the board read a letter from Edward Conroy, president of the district teachers' association, who said the year-round school proposal should be dropped because it would cost too much during a time when the district should cut expenses.

The Mill Valley School District Board also:

SALARIES — Announced that district school administrators will receive raises this year averaging 4 to 5 per cent. Specific figures on salary increases have yet to be worked out.

TEACHER AIDES — Postponed hiring four new teaching aides for Alto and Strawberry Point schools until a study of next year's budget is completed.

LOTTERIES — Set Feb. 4 and 11 at 4 p.m. to hold lotteries for teachers to decide who will be laid off first if budget cuts are necessary.

MEETING — Adjourned to next Monday at 8 p.m. to discuss the 1974-75 budget.

Community Recreation Center Architect Hired In San Rafael

The San Rafael City Council last night selected the architectural firm of Wagstaff and McDonald to design and supervise construction of a community recreational center near Albert Park.

The center, to be located adjacent to 612 B Street, is the city's first redevelopment project.

Councilmen chose the firm from among four applicants interviewed in public session. Other contenders were Robert W. F. Severin, Walter Thomas Brooks, and Crawford and Banning.

The council told Wagstaff and McDonald to negotiate a contract with City Mgr. William J. Bielser.

The project is estimated to cost about $350,000, according to Mayor C. Paul Bettini.

An old building located on the project site was demolished today to make way for the new structure.

In a related redevelopment matter last night, the council appointed a nine-member redevelopment advisory committee. Named to the group were Martin J. Bramante, Louis Della Valle, Thomas W. Hemphill, Sig Herzog, Richard M. Kamienieki, Jerry R. Russom, Anise M. Turina, George W. Uri, and Joaquin P. Gallardo. William J. Parnow was appointed as an alternate.

Bettini said the committee, charged with advising the city on redevelopment matters and making "formal recommendations to the redevelopment agency," will have power equivalent to that of the planning commission.

He noted, however, that the planning commission "has no final power at all."

In other matters, the council appointed Norris M. Rawles as the city's representative on the Mosquito Abatement District board, and appointed Richard Blank, David R. Frank, Ronald R. Leach, and Robert A. MacPherson to the city's open space advisory committee.

Firm Loses Mill Valley Liquor Bid

A San Francisco firm's request to be allowed to serve liquor in a proposed restaurant in the Old Brown's Store Shopping Center in Mill Valley was turned down last night by the city planning commission.

Robert J. Hanna, associate planner, said the commission told Leonard F. Rappa, representing Cho Cho Corp., that the bar and the 200-seat restaurant would create too much congestion in the downtown area.

Hanna said the commission had wanted to postpone action on the proposal until after an ordinance which will require use permits for restaurants is passed. But he said the firm asked that the city act immediately on the application to serve liquor.

The vote to deny the permit was 5-1 with Commissioner Richard Jessup voting for the bar-restaurant.

Also last night the commission denied a request from Harry Johnson of Mill Valley to rezone the Sabella's restaurant building on Redwood Highway from a commercial recreation zone to a commercial general, which would have allowed more varied uses in the building.

Fairfax Council Approves Plans For New Firehouse

The Fairfax Town Council last night unanimously approved plans and specifications for a new firehouse and remodeled police facility at Bolinas and Park roads.

The council called for bids on the work to be in by 10 a.m. Feb. 25 in town hall.

Town voters approved a $300,000 bond issue to finance the new firehouse and the police department remodeling last April.

City Administrator Robert E. Crowe said the project will cost about $244,000. He noted the town already has paid about $60,000 for the Ginder property near town hall, on which the new firehouse will be built.

Job Residency Ordinance Passed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Board of Supervisors has unanimously passed on a first reading an ordinance which would impose a year's residence requirement on applicants for most city jobs.

At present, non-residents can apply for a job but must move to the city after they are hired.

Plane Shooting Claim Is Denied

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The August Seventh Guerrilla Movement yesterday claimed it shot down two light planes in the East Bay Jan. 17, killing two persons.

The organization, in a letter to The San Francisco Chronicle, said its unit was training in the San Ramon Valley when the planes circled overhead.

"It became necessary to fire on the planes," the letter said. "Two direct hits were scored."

But the Federal Aviation Administration said the claim was false. "There's no question of the causal factors," an FAA investigator said. "It was two aircraft trying to occupy the same airspace."

Flood Victims Can Receive Jobless Funds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Persons who lost their jobs because of recent rains and floods in seven Northern California counties are eligible for special unemployment pay.

Director Dwight Geguldig of the state Employment Development Department yesterday said the special benefit was triggered by President Nixon's designation of Glenn, Humboldt, Mendocino, Shasta, Siskiyou, Tehama and Trinity counties as major disaster areas last week. The special unemployment pay, financed by funds through the federal Disaster Relief Act, will range from $60 to $90 per week, depending on the person's earnings. The payments, which also may cover the selfemployed, may continue for 26 weeks.

Geguldig said the EDC's unemployment offices will begin taking applications for the benefits tomorrow.

Dillon Anderson, Aide To Ike, Dies

HOUSTON (UPI) — Dillon Anderson, 67, former presidential assistant and golfing companion of Dwight D. Eisenhower, died yesterday.

Anderson joined the Eisenhower administration in 1955 as special asssistant for national security affairs, and from 1953 to 1960 was consultant to the National Security Council. He was also the U.S. delegate to the summit conference in 1955.

A TASTE OF WORK — Michael Modjeska, 10, a fifth grader at Alto-Edna McGuire School in Mill Valley, handles ladle and pot in the kitchen of a San Anselmo restaurant. FIFTH GRADE PROGRAM

Students Excited About Work In 'Real' Job In Real Business

By REBECCA LARSEN

"One week I peeled a sack of potatoes," said Michael Modjeska. "Then the next I had to crack a couple dozen eggs and make some soup. They let me take some of it home." Michael is one of the 12 fifth graders ar Alto-Edna McGuire School in Mill Valley who are taking part in a special career education program financed by a state grant. Every Friday afternoon he visits the Cafe Ambrosia, a Greek restaurant in San Anselmo, and pitches in with the restaurant crew for a couple of hours. The kitchen tasks they give him may seem like the nitty-gritty chores most people try to avoid, but for Michael they're an exciting introduction to the adult world. Principal Esther Padway of Michael's school said that that's why she organized the project. "The best part is that they are in businesses where something is going on at a professional level. So many of our kids get restless in grade school and high school and college. It's good for them to get out in the real world and see something." In most cases, the children spent the first few hours on their "jobs" in touring and observing. But after that, they get to dig in with the other workers, like the boy who "works" a Heath Ceramics in Sausalito and is making a mold there for a pot he will fire and glaze himself. According to program coordinator Shirlee Mannheimer, there are also six children working at Mount Zion Hospital in San Franciso. (The hospital administrator, J. O. Yedvab, is a parent with children at Alto.) Some are visiting KTIM and KSFO radio stations. Others are at the Pacific Sun newspaper and Ronald's Hair Design in San Anselmo. If the 11 week program succeeds, Mrs. Padway wants to extend it to the other fifth graders in the school.

More youngsters already are clamoring to join up. "A lot of children in Marin come from homes where they already have a wealth of experiences." she said. "But were giving them the kind of experience they wouldn't ordinarily have—working at a real adult job." The only catch seems to be finding businesses who want to devote some time to children. firms have shied away from participation, fearing liability of a child was injured on the job. For Michael, the program has opened up a new career field he never had thought about before. :"I'm really interested in the restaurant business now," he said as he sat on the principals office describing his experiences.

"You think after the program's over, they'll let me keep on coming?"

YMCA Director Accepts New Job

James K. Looney, executive director of the Young Men's Christian Association of Marin, yesterday announced his resignation in order to take a post in Southern California.

Looney, 29, has been the Marin director for three years.

During his tenure the local YMCA has tripled its budget size and more than tripled its membership and program services.

"The focus has been broadened but not changed from the Y's traditional role of working with people in small groups," Looney said.

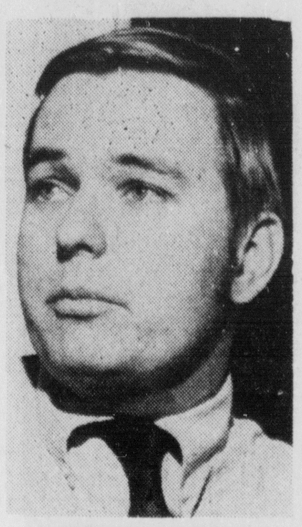

The Y membership in Marin is now about 3,500 persons, including both sexes and ranging from youngsters 5 years old through adults.

Looney said he is especially proud of the large camping program of the YMCA, which has grown from 300 persons to 1,600 participants.

A youth employment program was also instituted under Looney, and the national youth program using mini-bikes was started.

"We've had a good deal of success," Looney said, summing up his time in Marin.

He will become executive director of the West Valley YMCA of Los Angeles on March 15. This is the largest YMCA in the country which does not have residence and gymnasium facilities, he said.

JAMES K. LOONEY
New post

While in Marin, Looney also has served on the Golden Gate Seminary Advisory Committee and the Marin Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Committee.

He and his wife and son plan to move soon to Southern California.

Applications for a new Marin executive director are now being screened and the post is expected to be filled within 45 days.

A Reminder Of Sign-Ups For Voters

Marin and Southern Sonoma residents today were reminded that the deadline for registering to vote in the March 5 municipal elections is this Sunday.

Deputy registrars from the League of Women Voters of Central Marin will man registration tables at many shopping centers this weekend, according to Martha Hollenbeck, voter service chairman.

Prospective voters also may register at the elections office in the Marin Civic Center, at most fire departments, at all city halls or with deputy registrars in various locations.

Citizens must register to vote or re-register if they have never been registered, have moved or failed to vote in the last general election.

There are contested elections for city council seats in March in Belvedere, Cotati, Corte Madera, Fairfax, Larkspur, Mill Valley, Novato, Rohnert Park, Ross, San Anselmo, Sausalito and Tiburon.

In past years, such elections were held in April.

Marin Campus Is Reaccredited

The College of Marin has been termed "a fine community college" by a western regional accrediting commission and has been reaccredited.

The Accrediting Commission for Junior Colleges, Western Association of Schools and Colleges, has reaccredited the Kentfield school on the basis of a self-study report by the college and a three-day visit by an evaluation team in October.

Accreditation was formerly for a specified time length but policies have been changed and the accreditation is now "without time limit unless terminated" by the commission.

"The College of Marin is a fine community college. There is ample evidence that the college is fulfilling adequately its stated aims and purposes," the evaluation team's report says, adding that there are "identified problems awaiting resolutions."

The evaluation team said the school's programs to prepare students for transfer to other schools are strong and viable. And it said vocational-technical programs are offered in numbers "appropriate to community needs."

However, the team felt too much emphasis may be placed on the transfer programs. The team said that while many "disadvantaged" students aspire to transfer to four-year schools they often shift to vocational programs "more in keeping with reality for them."

The team gave special commendation to the college for establishing creative programs in community service areas such as Emeritus College for older adults and College for Kids for children ages 5 to 15.

The team suggested that the school consider expanding minority group enrollment beyond minority representation in Marin's population. It also recommended that obsolete equipment in vocational areas be replaced and that more support services, such as clerical help, be provided to faculty.

"Serious problems must be resolved regarding district reorganization resulting largely from the opening of the second campus," the team said regarding Indian Valley Colleges in Novato.

(The college has already moved to hire a separate president for the College of Marin so that Dr. John A. Grasham, who also has filled that position, can serve only as district superintendent.)

The evaluation team also thought that full-time administrative personnel are "few in number and overloaded in administrative assignments."

It suggested that department chairmen, who spend four-fifths of their time teaching be given more time to function in "administrative leadership" capacities.

The accrediting commission stressed that recommendations made by the evaluation team are provided to the college to use as it sees fit and that correction of the problems is not required as part of accreditation.

A Napa woman was injured in a three-car accident last night at Petaluma Boulevard North and Payran Street in Petaluma.

Elain Till, a passenger in a car driven by Daryl Phillips, 20, also of Napa, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Hillcrest Hospital with arm injuries and facial cuts.

Youth Center In Sausalito Picks Director

Michael Anderson, formerly a camp supervisor for the Berkeley Recreation Department, is the new director of the Sausalito Youth Center, the city has announced.

Anderson, 36, will replace Paul Kozak in the $3.17-an-hour, part-time post. Kozak will leave the job next week to attend the University of Southern California.

Anderson is single and most recently supervised the city of Berkeley's Echo Lake Camp.

The center is located in Central School.

Sex Change Distress Explained By Father

An ex-Army officer's disappointment and chagrin that his eldest son had undergone a sex change operation led to a bloody fight last October at the father's Strawberry home, a Marin Court heard yesterday.

The former Dennis William Crain, 30, now known as Caroline Janice Maxwell, is on trial in Marin Superior Court before Judge Henry J. Broderick, charged with stabbing his father during an argument.

John Crain, 56, a World War II veteran, weapons collector and expert in unarmed combat, told yesterday how he had high aspirations for his son, Dennis, and hoped that he would go to West Point to prepare for an Army career.

But instead, he testified, Dennis informed him about four years ago that he intended to be surgically altered to become a woman.

Crain testified yesterday that he reacted with "horror and dismay" at the news of his son's impending sexual transformation. "It was almost impossible to believe," he said.

He said the thought still upsets him to this day, that he is "personally embarrassed" and that he has tried to conceal the sex change from friends and relatives.

Thus, he said, he was angry on Oct. 2 when Miss Maxwell came to his house to pick up some belongings. She told him she intended to move to Mill Valley from San Francisco and begin working as a counselor for a transsexual organization.

"I almost pleaded with her not to do it; it would be a major embarrassment to her, to me and to my youngest son, who is away at school," Crain testified.

He said he "demanded" she not work in Mill Valley and then, after an angry verbal exchange, slapped and hit her in the face with his fist.

They grappled and Crain, a slender man outweighed by Miss Maxwell, managed to throw her from his house. But she returned, grabbed a Scottish dagger from a display case and stabbed her father three times, Crain testified.

Gaile O'Connor, Miss Maxwell's public defender attorney, said in an opening statement that Crain is "a man of the old school. He desired the defendant to be a masculine son."

Woman Gets High Sonoma State Post

In her new position, created during the school's current administrative reorganization, she will coordinate and direct Sonoma State's academic planning and academic personnel, a college spokesman said.

Miss Fallandy has been dean of academic planning, responsible for long-range academic objectives. She also has served as provost of arts and sciences, dean of the faculty, chairman of humanities and professor of French.

In announcing her appointment, President Thomas McGrath said "Dr. Fallandy brings the mature judgment to this post which is so necessary at a time when the campus is in a critical transitional state, both administratively and academically."

McGrath said she was chosen from more than 100 applicants.

Miss Fallandy, a native of Los Angeles, received her doctorate from the University of California at Los Angeles and her master's degree from the University of Oregon.

The new vice president lives in Santa Rosa.

END OF A RAILROAD LANDMARK

Demolition begins on Tiburon's decrepit railroad pier, once a vital link between trains and the ferries that connected Marin County with San Francisco. After a fire on the pier last summer, Southern Pacific Railroad officials decided that the rotting, crumbling hulk was too dangerous a temptation for fishermen who liked to dangle their lines from it. However, the railroad has promised the city it will try to save the hoists at the pier's end for further use somewhere along the waterfront as a memento of bygone days.

Four Left Dead In Night Murder Spree

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Black gunmen traveling in a large black automobile, shot and killed four white persons at random last night on the streets of San Francisco.

A young mother of a 4-month-old son also was shot apparently without reason but is expected to live, although physicians say she probably will be paralyzed from the waist down.

"It seems to be the work of more than one person," said Chief of Inspectors Charles Barca, who took personal charge of the investigation.

Police noted similarities to a 10-day outbreak of street shootings last month that killed six persons and wounded two others, although they would not definitely say the gunmen were from the same group.

"There's no rhyme or riddle to it," Patrolman William Wakefield remarked.

Witnesses gave varying descriptions of the gunmen but noted that in almost every case the man with the hand gun merely walked out and started shooting without saying a word.

In each case in the latest shootings the murder weapon was a .32-caliber pistol.

The murder spree started at 7:51 p.m. in a largely residential district to the west of San Francisco's downtown area and ended two hours later.

During that time the killers had slain another person to the west of the downtown area, one in a slum area two blocks from the city's main street and another near the southern San Francisco limits.

In all, they had traveled only six miles.

Little was known about the victims who had no connection with each other and appeared to have been picked at random.

The victims, in the order that they were shot, were Tina Smith, 32; Vincent Wollin, 69; John Bambic, 87; and Jane Holly, 35.

Wounded was Mrs. Roxanne McMillan, 23, who was standing near her new home in the city's southern section.

Tina Smith and Wollin were shot within nine minutes of each other, the woman at Geary Boulevard and Divisidero Street and Wollins at Scott and Fulton Streets.

Bambic, a pensioner, was killed at Ninth and Howard Streets, in the "South of the Slot" area.

Jane Holly, a bank employee, died in a brightly lighted self service laundry at Silver and Brussels streets and the shooting of Mrs. McMillan occurred in the 100 block of Edinborough Street.

Contempt Citations In I-J Strike Upheld

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has upheld contempt citations against four unions and four union officers in connection with secondary boycotts against the Independent-Journal in 1970.

The citations, issued by U.S. District Court Judge William T. Sweigert in December, 1970, stemmed from secondary boycotts of newspaper advertisers as well as distribution and delivery during the strike of San Francisco Typographical Union Local 21 against the I-J.

The appellate court, in affirming Sweigert's ruling, found guilty of criminal and civil contempt Typographical Union Local 21 and its organizer, Don Abrams; Teamsters Local 70 of Oakland and its president, James R. Muniz; and Teamsters Union Local 85 of San Francisco and a former officer of Local 85, Timothy J. Richardson.

Found guilty only of civil contempt were the typographical union's vice president, John De Martini, and the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Local 10.

The appellate court ruling means that the unions found guilty of criminal contempt must pay a $10,000 fine apiece, according to Nathan R. Berke, San Francisco attorney representing the I-J. All the unions involved in the action must split a $21,208 court fee under the civil contempt citation, he said.

The unions have 90 days to appeal the decision to the U.S. Supreme Court, he said.

Sitting on the appeals panel were Judges Charles M. Merrill, Ozell M. Trask and Robert Kelleher.

Group Hopes To Restore Old Houses

The Novato Civic Foundation, a nonprofit corporation of Novato residents, is seeking to lease three old buildings near city hall to restore them for community use.

The foundation has requested the city to grant 30-year leases on the Carlile house, the old postmaster's house and the Silva house, all on De Long Avenue.

The North Coast Model Railroad Society has indicated interest in using the Silva house for model displays, according to foundation president Herbert W. Cook Jr.

The Carlile house after restoration, would provide office space for the Novato Chamber of Commerce and a smaller office, he said.

The postmaster's house would provide quarters for an art commission, art displays, historic Novato items and meeting space for such groups as the Federated Women's Club, Cook said. The second floor would be used for office space for the foundation."

Offers to help in the restoration of the properties already have been received by the foundation, he said.

As proposed, the foundation would administer funds allocated for development and improvement of the properties and develop the properties so they would be self-sustaining "within a few years," Cook said.

Minority Job Breaks Pledged

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Basic Vegetable Products, Inc., a company employs employes about 3,000 persons in Vacaville and King City, has agreed to provide better promotional opportunities for women and minority food processors.

The agreement was reached yesterday in U.S. District Court and approved by Judge Spencer Williams. Teamsters Local 890, Salinas, which covers King City, and Teamsters Local 857, Sacramento, which includes Vacaville, were party to the determination.

Basic Vegetables, the nation's largest dehydrator of onion and garlic, said it would enter a five-year implementation program in which the level of women in "high bracket" jobs would be increased by 20 per cent.

The company also agreed to an on-the-job training program to help women and minority personnel train for higher paying positions, such as mechanics.

Maine Pays Man For Dead Chickens

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — The Maine House of Representatives voted yesterday to give $450 to a man who claimed 500 of his chickens were scared to death by a state police cruiser.

Erlon Ricker of Litchfield said the cruiser went by his chicken ranch with its siren howling last August, and the birds "piled up in fright" at the rear of their coops and died.

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL Today is Tuesday, Jan. 29, the 29th day of 1974 with 336 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning star is Venus. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

English-American freedom crusader Thomas Paine was born Jan. 29, 1737.

On this day in history:

In 1861, Kansas became the 34th state in the Union.

In 1900, eight baseball teams were organized as the American League. They were Buffalo, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Milwaukee, and Minneapolis.

In 1936, Ty Cobb, Walter Johnson, Christy Mathewson, Babe Ruth and Honus Wagner became the first five men elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame.

In 1963, Great Britain's application of membership in the Europeann Common Market was vetoed by France. Britain became a member in January, 1973.

A thought for the day: Early American freedom fighter Thomas Paine said, "A bad cause will ever be supported by bad means and bad men."

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Sometimes Those Staircase Bids Work Too Well For Own Good

Staircase bridge consists of the bids and plays that you make on the staircase (or in the elevator) as you go home. At the table we all fall short of perfection, but staircase plays always succeed. The trouble is that they may work too well.

1954 ACTION

The hand was played in the 1954 world championship. South overbid and North followed suit. The result was a very poor slam contract.

The play was equally undistinguished. West opened a spade, and South won. Declarer led a club to dummy's king and returned a low diamond. East played low, and South put up the queen.

ACE OF TRUMPS

West thought for a moment or two and then took his ace of trumps. South had no further trouble. He ruffed the spade return in dummy, finessed with the ten of diamonds, drew the last trump and then took the heart finesse. Both finesses worked, and South scored a lucky slam.

ON STAIRCASE

West found the right play on the staircase. "What would have happened," he speculated, "if I had refused the first diamond trick without appearing to think about it?"

South's queen of diamonds would win the trick. He would get back to dummy for another diamond lead. East would play low, and South would have a problem.

SOUTH WONDERS

"Who has the ace of diamonds?" South would wonder. "Should I play the king or the ten of diamonds on this trick?"

South might have taken hours to make up his mind. In fact, he might still be waiting to make his play — almost 20 years later!

Perhaps it's just as well that West made the table play instead of the staircase play.

♠ - A Q 5
♥ - Q 9 7
♦ - K Q 10 3

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two no-trumps.

This shows 19 or 20 points, with balanced distribution and stoppers in the unbid suits. (A jump to three no-trump overbid.)

Federal Reserve Leader Renamed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon yesterday reappointed Arthur F. Burns to serve another four-year term as chairman of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System.

Burns was in the Nixon administration since it began, starting as a counselor to the President. He was named to head the Federal Reserve in 1970.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Mental Hospitals Override Enacted

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Refusing to buckle under intense pressure, the Legislature has overridden a gubernatorial veto for the first time in 28 years and dealt Gov. Ronald Reagan his second major political setback in recent months.

The surprising defeat for the lameduck governor, who is a leading 1976 GOP presidential contender, came yesterday on a politically sensitive bill requiring legislative approval to close state mental hospitals.

Six dissident Republicans, including Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, joined all 21 Democrats in the Senate to narrowly approve, 27- 13, the historic override. The vote was the bare minimum required. All the "no" votes on the measure (AB855) by Democratic Assemblyman John L. Burton of San Francisco, a longtime Reagan antagonist, were cast by Republicans.

Two weeks ago, the Assembly approved the override on a bipartisan 63-11 vote. The legislation became law today without Reagan's signature.

In a statement, Reagan said, "I am disappointed, of course, but it had to happen sometime to some governor and this is a political year."

"That feels good," said Burton, the state Democratic chairman. "But what really feels good is that it provides some type of emotional security for parents (of mentally disturbed children)."

Senate Republican caucus chairman John L. Harmer of Glendale, who led the fight against the override, called it a "cheap shot" and said the Senate had "declared war" on Reagan.

The stain on Reagan's previously unblemished veto record marked his second major political defeat in three months. Last November, voters rejected his tax ceiling initiative, Prop. 1.

The last governor to have his veto overriden was Earl Warren, also a Republican, in 1946. The legislation involved was a "pork barrel" measure with public works projects for legislators' districts.

"The atmosphere had to be altered," said Harmer, because of the governor's lameduck status. Reagan has said he will not seek re-election.

FROZEN FOODS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Restaurants would be required to declare on their menus whether a dish consists of reheated frozen food under a bill introduced yesterday in the Senate.

Sen. Alfred Song, D-Monterey Park, author of the bill (SB1623), said, "All too many restaurants are serving frozen food, and that includes some of the most expensive ones.

HIKES PROPOSED

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation increasing hunting and fishing license fees for California's 3 million sportsmen was proposed yesterday by Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter, R-Newport Beach.

Carpenter said his measure was designed to help offset a $2 million deficit faced by the state Department of Fish and Game this year. The department also has estimated the deficit would be $3 million next fiscal year.

Carpenter said his measure would raise the basic hunting license fee from $6 to $10. But he said the increase on 200,000 California hunters would be eased somewhat by elimination of the $2 pheasant stamp.

CONVICT PAY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill requiring the state to pay convicts the minimum wage for their labors was killed yesterday by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The vote was 7-6, with 11 votes needed for approval.

Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, author of the measure (AB2386) vowed to continue work on the idea, which he said would provide needed rehabilitation for prisoners and help their adjustment into society.

CREMATION

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Board of Funeral Directors would regulate low-cost cremation societies under a controversial bill which has narrowly passed the Assembly.

The bill (AB1828) by Assemblyman Robert Badham, R-Newport Beach, was sent to the Senate yesterday on a 41-31 vote, the minimum margin needed for passage.

Opponents argued the bill would financially damage the cremation societies, such as Telophase Society of San Diego, by giving funeral director power over their business, which perform no formal funerals.

SINGLE SYSTEM

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation consolidating California courts into a single trial court system in an effort to reduce court caseloads has narrowly passed the Assembly.

The proposed constitutional amendment (ACA71) by Assemblyman Jack R. Fenton, D-Montebello, was sent to the Senate yesterday on a 54-16 vote, with no votes to spare.

DEPLETIONS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill abolishing oil depletion tax breaks for major California petroleum companies has been rejected by the Assembly which was warned the measure would worsen the energy crisis.

The bill by Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, was defeated yesterday on a 43-23 vote, far short of the 54 votes needed. But Burton, state Democratic chairman, said he will ask that the measure be reconsidered. Voting for the measure was Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, a Democratic contender for governor, argued that the lucrative oil depletion allowance should not be given to wealthy oil firms which are reporting "outrageous increases in profits."

ENERGY CZAR

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation giving Gov. Ronald Reagan czar-like powers to deal with fuel shortages has reached the Senate floor after narrowly winning approval from a key committee.

The "urgency" bill (SB1497) by Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, was approved yesterday on a bipartisan 7-2 vote, the bare minimum possible by the Finance Committee, but not before it ran into unexpected opposition. Even lawmakers who voted for it expressed reservations.

Alquist said he would bring the bill up for a floor vote tomorrow. It must pass the upper house by tomorrow under the Legislature's rules or it will die automatically.

Z'berg Got Expenses During Jail

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assemblyman Ed Z'berg was paid $30 a day in expense money while he served out a 48-hour, weekend jail term for drunken driving, state records show.

The Sacramento Democrat spent part of Jan. 11, all of Jan. 12 and part of Jan. 13 in the Sacramento County Jail after being convicted on the drunken driving charge. The sentence was mandatory because of a previous conviction.

State records filed in the State Controller's office confirmed that Z'berg was paid the expense money while in jail.

Assemblymen automatically receive expense funds for a weekend if they attend Assembly sessions on Thursdays, a spokesman for the Assembly clerk's office said yesterday. The lower house usually doesn't meet on Fridays.

The state government code says legislators shall receive daily expense money while attending a legislative session, traveling to or from one or attending other legislative functions.

If he doesn't want to receive expense payments over a weekend, a legislator must say so in writing.

Delay Seen In Nixon's Taxes

SACRAMENTO (upi) —An attorney for President Nixon says he expects that California won't make any ruling on the President's tax status until after the Internal Revenue Service acts on the matter.

Attorney Dean S. Butler of Los Angeles also said yesterday he anticipates a waiver of confidentiality sought by the state Franchise Tax Board would be issued "fairly soon" and the status of Nixon's state income tax would be fully disclosed.

The staff of the state Franchise Tax Board is looking into the question of the President's nonpayment of state income taxes from 1969 through 1972.

At the same time, the Internal Revenue Service and Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation is examing the legality of certain deductions the President took.

"Typically, the board would wait to make any decisions until after the matter was resolved with the Internal Revenue Service," Butler said in response to questions.

He added it was "customary and usual" in a question involving both the state and federal governments on a tax matter for the state Franchise Tax Board to await an Internal Revenue Service finding.

Speed-Up Promised On Nuclear Plants

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) yesterday announced a speeded-up licensing program for nuclear plants and promised to maintain the quality of its environmental and safety reviews.

Ralph Nader, however, said the existing AEC procedures did not work any too well. The consumer advocate charged the commission with suppressing a secret study that found serious safety problems in many of the nation's nuclear plants.

The AEC said it was following President Nixon's pledge to help ease energy problems by shortening the time to get nuclear power plants working. The AEC contends it currently takes 10 years to build a plant, including two for licensing review. The new regulations would permit licensing in four to 10 months.

The proposal would let environmental reports and safety reports be filed separately, but Manning Muntzing, the AEC regulatory director said, "We expect to maintain the quality of both environmental and safety reviews."

Nader, in testimony before the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, said new AEC guidelines for determining sites for power plants have been prepared which call for shifting construction to less densely populated areas. He said the AEC staff had concluded that several sites were "unsafe because of the risk of having a large number of people exposed to lethal doses of radioactivity in an accident."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Costochondritis Is Painful Type of Arthritis In Chest

A New Yorker writes: "Many articles are written on arthritis, but we never see any on a type called costochondritis (Tietze's syndrome). I have these attacks of severe pain in my chest and would appreciate some information on its prognosis and how it got its name."

Many years ago, a German physician, Dr. Alexander Tietze, described a peculiar chest disorder brought on by severe coughing. Pain developed just to the left of the breastbone and stemmed from a spot that was swollen, sore, and tender to the touch. Some of the victims feared heart trouble; others were certain they had cancer. Dr. Tietze was equally concerned because he thought the pain might be due to tuberculosis.

WE KNOW NOW that this type of chest pain comes from an injury to the cartilaginous joint (costochondral) connecting one of the ribs to the breastbone. The affected parts are dislocated or spread apart by violent or repeated bouts of coughing. It is easy to understand why the area is swollen and tender.

The soreness is aggravated by any movement, including coughing, deep breathing, or lifting an object. Lying down does not necessarily bring relief. The intensity of the distress varies from hour to hour and week to week. Pain may last several days then disappear for months only to recur after a coughing bout or taking a deep breath. In many ways, the behavior of the syndrome can be likened to a traumatic arthritis of other joints.

NO ONE DIES of Tietze's disease, but it may last months or years. During the painful stage, heat and aspirin offer temporary relief. Hot moist towels, an electric pad, or an infrared lamp are preferred to the heavier hot water bag which creates additional pressure on the chest. Injection of a corticosteroid or an anesthetic solution helps, but seldom is necessary. Fortunately, complete recovery is the rule.

Chest injuries following severe coughing are by no means unusual. In some instances, muscles are torn or a rib is fractured. Strain may rupture one or more air sacs of the lung (pneumothorax) or displace a vertebra in the spine. The callus of an old rib fracture has been known to separate during a severe coughing spell.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer question on medical topics by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902. Telephone inquiries will not be answered.

LEG CIRCULATION

REPLY

Light massage might help but there are better ways to improve circulation. Walking helps some persons whereas others need medicine to dilate the blood vessels. Applying heat to the lower abdomen also is useful, especially when circulation to the feet is poor. The warmed blood goes to the extremities, where it dilates the vessels. The direct application of heat is not advisable when the vessels are hardened.

'FROZEN' SHOULDER

REPLY

Locked or frozen shoulder can follow a severe or neglected injury, infection, arthritis, or bursitis of the shoulder. In many instances, the condition is neglected or the victim fails to exercise the arm during the recovery period.

MURMURS

H. T. R. writes: What are the symptoms of a heart murmur?

REPLY

Most victims have none. Symptoms appear when the heart no longer is able to overcome the valvular defects that are producing the abnormal heart sounds (murmur). In these circumstances, shortness of breath, palpitation, blackouts, and dropsy may occur.

Young Getty Is Back On Slopes

ROME (UPI) — J. Paul Getty III returned to Rome this weekend to help police working on the case against his accused kidnapers.

The 17-year-old grandson of the oil magnate left again yesterday for the Austrian Alps, where he has been skiing since he was released last month after a ransom of $2.9 million was paid.

His mother, Mrs. Gail Harris, agreed to let the boy return to Rome last Friday under tight police security. Two bodyguards accompanied him to see the film "Amarcord" Friday night and police said his food was chemically analyzed before he ate it.

Lear Bus Runs Out Of Steam

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "Stand back. I don't want anyone to get hurt—the driver is going to let the steam out," the mechanic said.

That was before they towed away inventor William Lear's $17 million steam-powered bus. It broke down two blocks into a demonstration run here yesterday.

"It's characteristic," Lear said philosophically. "We have 9,000 miles on the bus. I guess we should have stopped at 8,500."

At an earlier news conference, Lear and county officials unveiled the full-sized coach bus for the public, the product of five years of research and a $17 million investment, most of it from Lear himself.

"We accomplished what we started out to do," said Lear, who worked with a $900,000 contract from the Environmental Protection Agency to develop the steam engine.

BRUNDALL, England (UPI) — A boatyard has installed selfclosing doors on its workshop to stop wild ducks who live in the area from waddling inside and stealing workmen's lunches.

THE WRATH OF THE MISSISSIPPI

Debris from the flood-swollen Mississippi River piles up on the shore near Memphis. The Army Corps of Engineers said yesterday that the river and its tributaries have flooded more than two million acres of unprotected lowlands in Illinois, Missouri, Kentucky, Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana. The river is higher at this time than a year ago which resulted in spring flooding of more than $1 billion in damage. (UPI Telephoto)

$6.5 Million On Mushroom Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Alexander Schmidt, commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration, said today the FDA has spent $6.5 million in the last four months to inspect 75 million cans of mushrooms because of a botulism scare.

The project has so drained the FDA's money and manpower, he added, that 10,000 other priority food inspections, involving such things as fish, shellfish, dairy and grain products, will not be carried out this year.

While expressing confidence that "canned mushrooms now on the supermarket shelf, as well as all new production, are both safe and wholesome," Schmidt said something has to be done in the food industry so the government and the public will be able to easily identify the original producer of a good. Out of 12 mushroom recalls in the past 11 months, he said, the FDA only once was able to tell the public clearly what cans to look for.

In an address prepared for the National Canners Association in Atlantic City, N.J., and released in Washington, Schmidt said the FDA first identified processing deficiencies in the mushroom industry under a program started in August 1972. After several recalls, the agency ordered its inspectors into every warehouse in the country where mushrooms were stored to look for swollen cans — those which might be contaminated with deadly botulism.

"The survey covered more than 9,200 warehouses. We looked at 75 million cans, representing production by 42 domestic and 20 foreign producers," Schmidt said.

"The total cost to the FDA alone is in excess of $6.5 million. Even more critical, perhaps, is the cost to the FDA in time lost from other priority responsibilities.

"The final lesson that I see in the mushroom experience concerns the need for some better system to track defective products. The mushroom problem has dragged on as long as it has in part because of everybody's inability at times to pinpoint problem products in the maze of nationwide distributions and multiple private brands," Schmidt said. "There just has to be an easier way to find out where the various codes went and who has them."

Ancient Astronauts TV Special Thursday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A year ago a television special advanced the theory that the earth was visited in its early history by astronauts from another planet.

Those same people are back with a new special and a new theory: that the earth was colonized by ancient astronauts and that we are their descendants.

The show, "In Search of Ancient Mysteries," to be seen on NBC Thursday, looks for the so-called evidence and artifacts of the extraterrestrial colonists.

The first show, "In Search of Ancient Astronauts," was based on Erich von Daniken's book, "Chariots of the Gods" It helped spark a worldwide controversy over Von Daniken's theories and inspired a rebuttal, "Crash Go the Chariots."

Rod Serling, who narrates the "Mysteries" special, based on material written by Alan Landsburg, said, "I look on this with the same kind of excitement as science fiction. I'm titillated by it. I wouldn't say everything in the film is actually the case, but I would say a good case can be made for the projections.

"I retain a degree of skepticism. But if you look at these Andean 'airstrips' it defies the imagination. Look at the drawings that look like airships. What else could it be?"

Serling said the point of the show is not to make people believe. "It's to say, look at this phenomena, then write your own ticket."

"Since time began that big question mark has been hanging over the universe," he said. "People love to be frightened, titillated and exposed to mysteries." Devout religionists are incensed by the Von Daniken theories. Serling said, "Von Daniken says up front it's not a theological explanation. But he gets a lot of mail accusing him of being antireligious.

"I don't think a reconciliation between the two views is needed. Ardent religionists will never bow to surmise or even to fact if it runs counter to what the Old Testament says."

He said, "Personally, I don't see any reason why these two ideas — belief in God and acceptance of a scientific theory — are necessarily irreconcilable. You can believe there is other life in space. I believe they are also creatures of God."

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Chemical Firm Outlook Good

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Currently I have a loss on 150 shares of Commercial Solvents (NYSE). What is your opinion on the chances of this stock appreciating? — R.M.

A. Despite some backing off from October recovery levels, CV shares are currently trading 78 per cent above lows reached last June. The rebound corresponded with a sharp improvement in company earnings and investor interest in fertilizer producers. Earnings for 1973 probably approached $1.50 a share (before an extraordinary gain of $2.11 a share), a level not seen since 1967. In response to the higher profit level, directors voted a 50 per cent increment in the divident rate.

CV's product mix — specialty agricultural and industrial chemicals as well as drugs and pharmaceuticals — imparts a substantial degree of recession resistance to the company. Areas which appear particularly promising over the near term are drugs and fertilizers. CV is currently working on a drug for treatment of acute cardiac infarction and on human application of its anabolic implant now used for animals. If earnings gains continue as expected, share price should also move gradually higher Hold.

Q. As of this date, we hold 8,422 shares of Dreyfus Fund and 943 of Dreyfus Leverage Fund. Our Social Security amounts to $285 per month and we have no other income. We are thinking of starting a $700 monthly withdrawal plan. Would you advise this? — B.C.

A. The higher Social Security payment schedule should be good news for you and your wife. Your two mutual fund holdings are worth about $98,000 on today's market. The $8,400 return you require — an 8.6 per cent yield — while attainable from bonds without sacrificing capital, would probably entail depleting your principal with these two mutual funds. I would suggest exchanging about $40,000 of your present holdings for shares of Dreyfus Special Income Fund which yields 6.6 per cent from income dividends. The $58,000 balance, if invested in several good quality bonds, should return close to 9 per cent, about $5,220 annually.

Investors Sit Tight On Market

Analysts said investors seem to be ignoring positive market news such as lower prime interest rates and other indicators that the money supply is being loosened.

Instead they appear to be waiting on the sidelines until at least some of the uncertainties surrounding the petroleum industry and oil supplies and prices are cleared away either by the Arab producing nations or the U. S. government.

What investor interest there was appeared to be centered on the oils and the motors. Gold mining issues were victims of sellings in the wake of lower gold prices in Europe.

Salary Is Rated Tops As Executive Status Symbol

Business managers believe no status symbol can take the place of an adequate salary, autonomy, the opportunity for personal growth, and the freedom to make important decisions, according to Industry Week.

The magazine for managers, in a survey of companies, found that salaries and bonuses for outstanding performance rated an unchallenged No. 1 status symbol position.

Other symbols listed in the survey and the approximate order of importance in which they are regarded are:

Access to a corporate aircraft (lately an even better status symbol is a private helicopter, a trend that started three for four years ago.)

Luncheon clubs.

Financial planning service.

Only employees determine what is a status symbol. However, status symbols are far less important than many people had believed them to be. Just giving a manager the right to make an autonomous decision, to be able to grow, will mean more to him than giving him a number of superficial status symbols, Industry Week said.

Many companies are extremely touchy on the subject of status symbols; in fact, there's a reluctance to discuss them, the magazine found. Often top management finds it can do nothing but go along with what's currently popular. In one place, a desk carafe is a status symbol; in other offices, everyone has one. Most managers, the magazine said, consider a window office as a symbol of status.

Most companies provide designated parking spaces simply because it's a waste of executive time to hunt for places to park. Sometimes companies provide their executives with memberships in a luncheon club, but usually the membership is limited to a single club used mainly to entertain business guests. Many respondents in Industry Week's survey believe that an executive dining room is an extremely wise investment because it does much for the communication process.

The corporate jet persists as a status symbol, although it long ago became a necessity in making efficient use of time. More recently, in the New York area especially, the personal helicopter is the envy of all lesser executives who must fight traffic or crowds all the way to and from the office while their privileged counterparts wing to and from Connecticut or New Jersey in a mere 30 minutes or so.

Sometimes a corporation must make status decisions for its employees. Some large firms have manuals that spell out quite specifically who may have exactly what, the magazine said.

Ali Talking Like Champion Again

Frazier Can Have 3rd Fight

By STU CAMEN

NEW YORK (UPI) — His victory over Joe Frazier was only 15 minutes old before Muhammad Ali began talking like the champion he once was — and feels he still is.

(Other fight stories, page 31.)

"I would love to give Joe another chance," said the unmarked Ali shortly after gaining a hard fought, but unanimous, 12-round decision over Frazier and avenging his loss of three years ago to "Smokin' Joe."

"I'm not gonna fight out of the country every two years like (George) Foreman," added Ali, referring to the current world heavyweight champ. "We (Ali and Frazier) should go again. The public wants it."

That, the public surely does, if last night's emotionally charged gathering of 20,748, contributing to a record, nontitle, indoor gate of $1,053,688 at Madison Square Garden, is any indication.

The bout was also seen on home and theater television in some 50 countries and while it will take weeks before the final count is in, officials were predicting a gross of between $17 million and $18 million for the TV rights with Ali and Frazier expected to earn in the neighborhood of $2.5 million each.

The fight was built on the premise that it would set the winner up as the most logicial contender for Foreman while the loser would be finished in the ring. Such was not the case.

What it proved was that Ali and Frazier need, not Foreman, but only each other, if for only one more time, for another multi-million dollar payday.

Foreman, who was among those at the Garden but only until the third round when he got up and left, was greeted with a chorus of resounding boos during the pre-fight introductions. With Ali and Frazier getting so much money, the champion, whose next defense is set for March 26 in Caracas, Venezuela, against Ken Norton, must have felt short-changed.

"I'll bet my life this was a better fight than the last one between us," said Ali, who lost a 15-round decision to Frazier, then champion, on March 8, 1971. Certainly, Ali was more pleased with the decision this time around.

"I thought Joe was finished but he hurt me twice," said Ali, who winced more than once after taking numerous hard left hooks to the head. "Any other fighter who wasn't in as good a shape as I am would have been knocked out."

Ali's speed, hardly what it used to be, was still enough to allow him to build up a commanding lead through the early rounds. Once the 32-year-old, 212 pound Ali began slowing down, Frazier, two years younger and three pounds lighter than his opponent, began connecting more and more, but Ali still had enough left to get the 11th round from all three officials.

Ali felt the ratio of punches was 4-to-1 in his favor but Frazier, while claiming the fight was very close, thought he won.

"I landed the more effective punches and Ali kept holding," claimed Frazier who came out of the bout with only a welt over his left eye. "I didn't feel he was as tough as the last time. He didn't have as much. I want him again."

Unlike the last fight between the two when Frazier knocked Ali down in the 15th round, there were no knockdowns this time around and neither fighter was ever in serious trouble. The only blood came from Ali's left nostril in the ninth round and from a cut in Frazier's mouth in the 10th.

Referee Tony Perez, who committed a boo-boo when he stopped the action 10 seconds before the end of the second round after thinking he had heard the bell, had the closest scoring of the three officials, giving it to Ali 6-5-1. Judge Tony Castellano had it 7-4-1 and judge Jack Gordon, 8-4.

Even Foreman must have heard them—wherever he was.

49ers Pick Running Back And Lineman

I-J Special Report

REDWOOD CITY — The San Francisco 49ers, looking for players who can help them immediately, chose Alabama running back Wilbur Jackson and UCLA defensive tackle Bill Sandifer this morning with their first-round selections in the National Football League draft.

The Oakland Raiders selected offensive tackle Henry Lawrence, a 6-foot-3, 250-pounder from Florida A and M.

"There is a spot on the starting team for Wilbur Jackson right off the bat," said 49er coach Dick Nolan of the 6-foot-1, 208-pounder who averaged 7.9 yards a carry for the Crimson Tide's potent Wishbone offense.

'DEFINITE ASSET'

"Bill Sandifer is one of the top two tackles in the nation, and will be a definite asset in shoring up the defensive line," was Nolan's comment on the 6-foot-7, 285-pounder.

The 49ers had the ninth and 10th choices in the first round of the draft. The 10th was their own following their 5-9 record of 1973, and the ninth was obtained from New England in a 1972 trade which sent tight end Bob Windsor to the Patriots.

NINER BACKS

Since Ken Willard and Doug Cunningham passed their prime, the Niners have unsuccessfully sought first-rate running backs, trying Larry Schreiber, Vic Washington, Jimmy Thomas (now retired), Odell Lawson, and Randy Johnson last season alone.

Heisman trophy winner John Cappelletti of Penn State was available when Wilbur Jackson was chosen, but "Jackson was the best runner available — better than Cappelletti," Nolan said. The Los Angeles Rams, drafting right after San Francisco, took Cappaletti.

Jackson is capable of playing fullback, but probably will be used at halfback, 49er officials said.

TROUBLED LINE

Sandifer will be stepping into a defensive line which had trouble against the run last year. After Earl Edwards was traded to Buffalo for Randy Jackson, the Niners used Bob Hoskins and 36-year-old Charley Krueger at the position. Though Rolf Krueger also was available, the 49ers felt unsure enough about the tackle situation to lure Stan Hindman out of retirement.

The 15-minute time limit on selections expired before the 49ers took Jackson in the ninth round, but since they also had the 10th round pick, they did not have to forfeit their choice. They needed only three additional minutes to tab Sandifer.

NFL DRAFT

Dallas Tabs Jones First

NEW YORK (UPI) — Defensive linemen were the premium commodity in the first round of the National Football League college players draft today as Tennessee State's 6-foot-8 defensive tackle Ed "Too Tall" Jones was the first player drafted, being selected by the Dallas Cowboys.

The Baltimore Colts, choosing fifth, took Nebraska's defensive tackle John Dutton and the New York Jets immediately followed by drafting Carl Barzilauskas, another defensive tackle from Indiana.

UCLA defensive tackle Bill Sandifer was the 10th player selected when he was chosen by San Francisco, which had consecutive first round picks and preceded its choice of Sandifer with Alabama running back Wilbur Jackson.

Heisman Trophy winner John Cappelletti of Penn State was not drafted until 10 collegians had preceded him, including two running backs. The Los Angeles Rams, using the No. 1 pick obtained from the Philadelphia Eagles with Harold Jackson for Roman Gabriel, took the powerful Penn State tailback.

Colorado fullback Bo Mathews was the first running back and the second player selected in the draft, going to San Diego. The Chargers used their second first round pick to take Kansas linebacker Don Goode.

The Chicago Bears selected Tennessee State linebacker Waymond Bryant, St. Louis took Colorado tight end J.V. Cain, Detroit chose Penn State linebacker Ed O'Neil, and Ohio State linebackers Richard Middleton and Randy Gradishar were drafted by New Orleans and Denver, respectively.

National Conference champion Minnesota, using a pick from Atlanta, grabbed Fred McNeill, the 6-3, 210-pound linebacker from UCLA.

Reuben Gant, a 6-4, 225-pound tight end from Oklahoma State, was selected by Buffalo.

Oakland followed by selecting offensive tackle Henry Lawrence, a 6-3, 250-pounder from Florida A and M. Lawrence played with an undistinguished team but still managed to make his presence felt with his blocking and pulling ability.

Pittsburgh then picked Lynn Swann, the All-American wide receiver from Southern California. Swann, 6-0 and 180, caught 42 catches for 714 yards and six touchdowns last season, averaging 17 yards per catch. He also returned 19 punts for 89 yards and his 95 career receptions set a USC record.

Dallas used its second pick on the first round to select Charlie Young, a 6-1, 210-pound running back from North Carolina State. Young was overshadowed by record-breaking teammate Willie Burden but was still impressive enough to be named the Cowboy's first-round pick.

Cincinnati picked Bill Kollar, a defensive tackle from Montana State. Kollar, the No. 1 pick of Chicago in the WFL and reportedly locked up by that club, like the McNeill brothers also sent word to the NFL that he was available. The 6-4, 243-pounder was named the outstanding defensive player in the senior bowl.

Baltimore, on a choice from Los Angeles, named wide receiver Roger Carr, a 6-3, 200-pound speedster from Louisiana Tech. Carr, hampered by injuries for most of the season, still caught 30 passes for 598 yards and four TDs.

The draft marked the first time in more than a quarter century that a quarterback was not chosen on the first round. NFL officials researched as far back as 1947, when players were drafted simply as backs.

OVER LA VERNE

Sonoma State Cagers Prevail

By PAUL DWORIN

The Sonoma State College basketball team has a bad habit of playing as poorly as its opposition — until it has to perform better to win.

Last night was no exception to this routine, as the Cossacks woke up from their lethargy late in the second half to beat La Verne College, 79-63, and post their 20th consecutive home court victory.

The non-league win before 400 vociferous fans in Rohnert Park raised Sonoma's overall season record to 10-6. The Cossacks resume Far Western Conference play this weekend at San Francisco and Hayward State colleges.

ith 11 minutes remaining in the game, Sonoma held a 53-52 edge, but Steve Tiedeman then hit three straight 20-footers to spark a 22-6 scoring spree that put the game away with three minutes left.

That La Verne was that close — aside from the Cossacks' lackadaisical play — is a nontribute to the officiating, which was terrible at best.

In the first half, La Verne made eight less baskets than Sonoma but was just two points down at halftime because the referees awarded them 18 tries at the free throw line — La Verne converted 16.

Aside from keeping the game close, the prolific whistling of the officials forced Cossack coach Bill Trumbo to go to his depleted bench because starters Bob LeBrun and Tom Fitchie got in foul trouble early. Sixth man Dan Heien didn't suit up to rest his injured ankle for the upcoming conference games.

"When I get aggressive with good refs, I don't get that many fouls," commented LeBrun, who picked up three fouls in the first 10 minutes and was used sparingly thereafter. "Sometimes they call them weird and sometimes they don't."

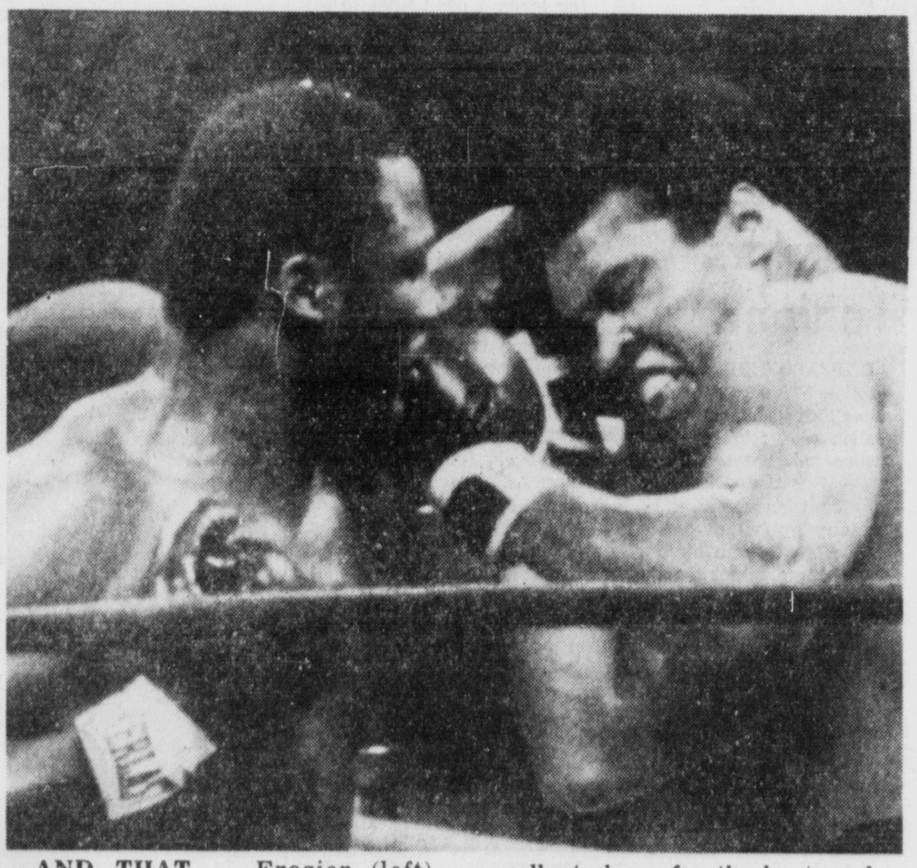

The Cossacks shot a deceptive 54 per cent from the floor; deceptive because they shot poorly from the outside and scored the bulk of their points on lay-ups. La Verne made an undeceptive 34 per cent.

La Verne	38 25	63
Sonoma	40 39	79

La Verne — Washington 5-7-17, Lipkin 5-5-15, Castaneda 1-1-3, Carter 1-4-6, Rockwood 6-0-12, Edmonds 4-0-8, Mehav 1-0-2. Totals: 23-17-63.

Sonoma — Bristol 4-0-8, Sumpter 1-2-4, Fitchie 5-2-12, Tiedeman 10-0-20, Brant 1-0-2, Long 3-1-7, Belander 11-0-22, LeBrun 2-0-4. Totals: 37-5-79.

BASKETBALL: 49ERS VS. RAIDERS

Tickets are available at two sites in Marin for Friday's charity basketball game between the San Francisco 49ers and the Oakland Raiders.

The game, scheduled for 8:01 p.m. at the University of San Francisco, benefits the Bay Area March of Dimes.

Tickets cost $3 and may be purchased at Roos-Atkins clothing store in the Northgate shopping center, at the San Rafael March of Dimes office, 4460 Redwood Highway, and at the gate.

Marin Tar Quintet Vs. West Valley

College of Marin will step into the most burdensome part of its basketball schedule tonight, but will make nary a complaint while preparing to play three games in five days.

The Tars will visit West Valley of Campbell at 8 o'clock tonight and will return to Kentfield to host Canada College of Redwood City Thursday and Contra Costa of San Pablo Saturday, both at 8 p.m.

Far from griping about the compulsory overtime, the Tars are happy with the schedule. "Our opponents will be playing four games in eight days," notes coach John Panagakis.

The season was increased from 14 to 16 games this year with the expansion of the Camino Norte Conference from eight to nine teams. Alameda and Foothill entered and Skyline departed. Most teams get stuck with four games in eight days at some point along the way, but Marin's bye date fell conveniently last Saturday night.

The defending champion Tars, 3-2 in league play, have been idle since their Jan. 19 overtime loss to league-leading De Anza in Cupertino, 67-62.

De Anza followed up that victory with a 59-55 triumph at Foothill last Saturday, giving the Dons a 6-0 conference record and dropping Foothill to 4-1.

"We will have to play more people," during the busy week, admitted Panagakis, and his team will be operating without reserve Hoza Wright, who tore ligaments in his ankle in practice last week and will be in a cast for another week.

On the other hand, center Charles Saine has apparently recovered from a hip injury sustained when he came off the bench against De Anza. Saine, recently promoted from the freshman team, provided needed rebounds against the Dons.

Marin's foe West Valley is not the same band of marauding Vikings which challenged the Tars for the conference title last year. Graduation has robbed them of such villains as Rick Hile, whose last minute shot gave Marin its only conference defeat.

West Valley is 2-3 in the conference and 6-15 overall. "They press all over the court and they have two fine shooters," Panagakis said.

"Some of these teams are awfully tough at home," he continued. And they'd better be tougher on De Anza and Foothill than on Marin, if the Tars are to repeat as titleholders.

Washington State Vs. San Diego

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Washington State, an improving team with a 7-10 season's record, calls on San Diego University tonight while Nevada Las Vegas is at Loyola in West Coast Athletic Conference action.

A light schedule last night saw Stanislaus State edge University of California at San Diego 70-63 as Bill Larson hit six of six freethrows in the final three minutes.

Boise State hit 53 per cent from the floor in a 63-52 win over Puget Sound while Drew Landrum's jumper with four seconds to go carried St. Martin's past Seattle Pacific 65-63. Montana flattened Simon Fraser of British Columbia 96-42 and Columbia Christian topped Alaska 73-54.

Meanwhile, latest Pac-8 figures showed no change in the conference leaders since there were no conference games last weekend. Steve Puidokas of Washington State still tops scorers with a 22.5 average.

UCLA's Bill Walton tops scoring in all games with a 19.5 average, followed by Ron Lee of Oregon (18.6) and Rich Kelley of Stanford (17.5).

The conference noted that Walton apparently is the most accurate shooter in the history of college basketball with a 64.9 per cent accuracy figure in 72 games.

In other news, Southern California gloomily announced that center Clint Chapman, who missed two Trojans wins last weekend in New York City, won't return for Saturday night's game with UCLA, either. He is resting a sore knee.

World Football League Has McAlister, Johnson, Brown

ANAHEIM (UPI) — The fledgling World Football League has landed three players it says would have gone in the first round of today's National Football League annual college player draft.

Offensive tackle Booker Brown of University of Southern California and UCLA's James McAlister and Kermit Johnson, two of college football's premier running backs this past season, have signed multi-year, no-cut contracts with the WFL's Southern California franchise.

Yesterday's announcement at a news conference at Anaheim Stadium, home of the Southern California club, was timed to show the NFL—and the ticket-buying public—that the new league means business.

"We think this demonstrates that the World Football LEague and our franchise is willing to compete with our competitor in terms of acquiring top rate personnel," said Larry Hatfield, the club's president.

"There will not be any proof of this because I'm sure the NFL will recoup and these boys will not be drafted in their rightful positions. But I've spent 26 years around the NFL and, believe me, these are all bona fide, solid number one draft choices."

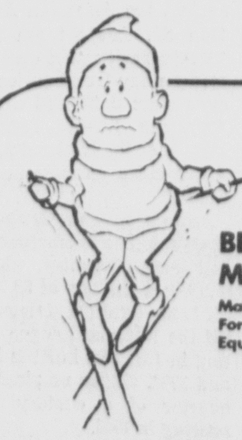

Mike Trope, an attorney who represented the three players in negotiations with the WFL club, had said only an "unbelievable offer—more than O. J. Simpson is making," would cause McAlister, Johnson and Brown to sign before the NFL draft.

According to Trope, the McAlister and Johnson contracts were worth approximately $750,000 combined.

McAlister, Johnson and Brown were Southern California's top three draft choices, in that order, last week. The No. 4 choice was San Diego State quarterback Jesse Freitas.

McAlister and Johnson, former teammates at Blair High in Pasadena, Calif., led UCLA's wishbone Bruins to 8-3 and 9-2 records the past two seasons. Johnson rushed for 2,495 yards and 25 touchdowns in 370 carries to become UCLA's alltime leading ground gainer.

Gymnastics And More Of Same For Karla Meeks

By LEW CODDINGTON

Karla Meeks says she just doesn't like "sitting around after school, only doing my homework," so she came up with a few diversions to occupy her time — such as water skiing, snow skiing, diving, track, teaching and gymnastics. Most especially gymnastics.

The 17-year-old Tamalpais High School junior was Marin's outstanding competitor Saturday in the Section IV gymnastics meet in Napa, winning the all-around title in the intermediate open class with 29.85 points out of a possible 40.00. For this, she was named Independent-Journal Prep of the Week.

Almost before she could finish basking in the prestige of her victory, she was back in the Tam High gym to devise her optional routine for the upcoming meet March 9.

"I enjoy optionals more," she said, echoing what most gymnasts say. "Compulsories get you in the mood, but in optionals you get to compose your own routine."

In working on her optionals, she will listen carefully to the advice of her mother, who is also her coach — Margaret Meeks of Tam High. "I used to go to her meets — that's what first interested me," Karla said. Not surprisingly, the other Meeks daughter, Roni, also was a gymnast while at Tam.

Karla says she spends about two and a half hours a day, seven days a week, practicing gymnastics. In the summer, she breaks the routine to go to camp — gymnastics camps, in various places around the west.

When not practicing, she teaches classes Tuesday and Thursday nights and Saturday mornings for the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department. The course? Basic gymnastics.

Not every moment is spent on gymnastics. In the fall, she competes as a diver on the girls swim team, and finished third in the Marin County Athletic League in 1973. In spring, she runs the 80-yard low hurdles for the girls track team.

"Gymnastics builds you up so you can do anything," she says. "It gives you endurance for track, and grace for diving."

KARLA MEEKS

"Gymnastics gives you endurance and grace," she says. "It's a challenge. I just don't like sitting around after school."

(Sketch by Jack Lucey)

Karla also is an accomplished snow skier ("I go every chance I can") and has just taken up water skiing. In the midst of all this, she still manages to study often enough to maintain a 3.5 grade point average on a 4.0 scale.

She is undecided about college, but is considering going into the social sciences or physical therapy. She would like to continue competing in gymnastics, and be near the snow, if possible.

"It's just a challenge," she says about her multitude of athletic pursuits. "I just like to see what I can do."

Surprise: UCLA Is Top Rated

NEW YORK (UPI) — If there is anything college basketball does not need, it is UCLA trying harder.

But, being No. 2, that's what the Bruins had to do Saturday against Notre Dame and the results were devastating.

It was an Irish wake as Notre Dame was trounced, 94-75, returning the United Press International Board of Coaches' No. 1 ranking to UCLA.

Quickly falling back into old habits, the UPI board unanimously voted the Bruins No. 1, while the Irish fell to third in the rankings.

North Carolina State, beaten only by UCLA this season, was ranked second ahead of Notre Dame.

North Carolina was beaten by the Wolfpack last week, but still moved up a slot to fourth after defeating Atlantic Coast Conference rival Maryland.

Marquette also passed Maryland, slipping into the fifth spot.

Vanderbilt, which has lost only once this season, switched places with Providence and claimed the No. 7 ranking.

Alabama was ninth, but the season's surprise team, Pittsburgh, broke into the top 10 for the first time with a 15-1 record. The Panthers' 15-game winning streak is currently the longest in major college basketball.

Holdovers Kansas, Wisconsin and Texas-El Paso grabbed the next three spots, while Purdue and Syracuse returned to the rankings in a tie for 19th.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United Press International's Board of Coaches major college basketball ratings with number of first place votes and won-lost records in parentheses:

WALKING VIOLATION

Seton Hall's Paul Lape (14) took the ball away from South Carolina's Jimmy Walsh with a minimum of subtlety on Saturday, and was called for "walking" all over his opponent. South Carolina won the game in New York City, 75-74.

Chargers Accused In A Drug Furor

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Marijuana and cocaine were used by some San Diego Chargers football players last season, the San Diego Union reported.

"Their recent use has involved a number of players, splitting the squad into camps of users and abstainers," the newspaper said in an article for today's edition. It said the article resulted from its own six-week investigation.

Former Charger receiver Chuck Dicus, who was dealt to Pittsburgh at mid-season, is quoted as saying:

"I have too many friends on the team. I don't want to say anything to endanger their careers. But it's bad, really bad."

Ron Waller, who served as interim coach in the last half of the 1973 National Football League season, said, "If there was a drug problem, I just didn't want to know about it."

He said the Chargers' 2-11-1 record, their worst ever, was due solely to the fact that "they didn-t have a very good football club."

The team's alleged drug problems first came to light in documents filed in a suit by former Charger tackle Houston Ridge, saying pain-killers, amphetamines and anabolic steroids were easily available in the locker room during the late 1960s.

Ridge, who claimed improperly administered drugs helped cause a 1969 injury that ended his playing career, sued club officials and the NFL, and collected nearly $300,000 in a settlement.

NHL ALL-STAR GAME TONIGHT

Ailing East To Battle West

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Hockey League All-Star game will be staged at 7:30 p.m. CDT tonight, although Coach Scotty Bowman of the East may have an under strength squad or not know who will be on the ice until game time. (It will be televised at 9 p.m. PDT on Channel 44.)

Bowman leveled charges that both the New York Rangers and Boston Bruins were not cooperating in furnishing players for the game and detailed a blow-by-blow account of his efforts to keep his squad at the authorized strength of 20.

Last night he had 15 players, exclusive of goaltenders, and the promise that three more players might be available. But some of the players were fill-ins for fill-ins and not exactly what he wanted.

For instance, he wanted Jean Ratelle or Walt Tkaczuk from the Rangers and he said "the Rangers refused to send anybody."

He wanted Carol Vadnais from the Bruins and he said General Manager Harry Sinden said, "You've got Dallas Smith and that's enough."

"I don't think every New York Rangers player would refuse to play in the game," Bowman said. "The reason there's only one Ranger in it I think is a lot of hogwash."

Bowman, who has won one, tied one and lost one in previous All-Star competition, said he hoped that Jim McKenny would be made available by Toronto, that Red Berenson was coming from Detroit, and that his own Larry Robinson from Montreal definitely would be there.

Coach Billy Reay of the Chicago Black Hawks, directing the West for the fourth time with one win and two losses on his record, might be missing one player, Bill Goldsworthy of Minnesota, due to a leg injury, and if Goldsworthy can't play, he will seek no replacement. But there have been no other roster changes on the selected West team.

Veterans Bottomley, Conlan, Thompson Join Hall Of Fame

NEW YORK (UPI) — For all of you who enjoyed the 1887 "World Series," you'll be happy to know that Sam Thompson has been named to the Hall of Fame.

Thompson, who played most of his career before the turn of the century, was named to the Hall of Fame yesterday by the Committee on Baseball Veterans along with "Sunny Jim Bottomley" and umpire John B. "Jocko" Conlan.

Only Conlan of the three is still living. They will be inducted into the Hall of Fame Aug. 12th in Cooperstown, N.Y., along with former New York Yankee greats Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford, who were elected earlier this month by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

There has been a controversy in recent years about the selection to the Hall by the Veterans Committee of men who played mainly in the 19th century.

The election of Thompson, who died a half century ago in 1922 at the age of 62, is likely to revive that controversy. He played all but eight of his games before the turn of the century.

JOCKO CONLAN
Former umpire

JIM BOTTOMLEY
Ex-slugger

Thompson's statistics look good but it's difficult these days to judge a guy who starred in 1887 when Detroit—then in the National League — played against the American Association St. Louis team in the "World Series." Of course, the modern day World Series didn't even start until 1903 when the American League—formed in 1901—met the National League, which dates its existence back to 1876.

Bottomley and Conlon are more familiar to longtime baseball fans. Bottomley, who died in 1959 at the age of 59, was a St. Louis Cardinal standout who led the National League in hitting in 1931 and in RBIs in 1926 and 1928. Conlon umpired for a quarter of a century before retiring in 1965.

Thompson had the most career home runs in the NL until passed by Rogers Hornsby. Thompson, a 6-foot-2 lefthanded hitter for Detroit and Philadelphia, batted .336 in his career and hit 126 home runs before 1900, leading the league three times.

Thompson starred in the 1887 World Series in Detroit's 10 games to five victory over St. Louis, batting .377.

Conlan played the outfield in the minor leagues for 13 years before joining the Chicago White Sox for two years in 1934-35. He then umpired in the minors for five years before moving up to the National League in 1941. He was the first umpire to wear a chest protector.

Buffalo, Warriors Tonight

BUFFALO (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors open a three-game National Basketball Association road trip here tonight before an expected crowd of about 10,000. Coach Al Attles tabs the three-game set as especially important and says "we've got to win more than one of these games if we're to remain in contention for the division title."

The rest of the Warriors schedule is dotted with contests against teams down in the standings, but they come awfully fast at Golden State, which will play 36 games in the next 57 days.

The Warriors (24-22) are 2 ½ games back of Los Angeles in the Pacific Division It appears that Midwest Division powers Milwaukee, Chicago and Detroit will all make it to the playoffs, which leaves just one spot for Los Angeles or the Warriors. Detroit with a 33-19 record is, in effect, six games up in the Warriors.

Forward Clyde Lee says "I think we've got it back together again."

Although he can't go more than 20 minutes a game, and brought weights on the trip to strengthen his repairing knee, Lee's presence is seen a key to the Warriors' three-game win streak and chances of winning the division.

A Grim Look At Life In The Sea

The meeting, set up by the North Central Coast Region Commission included representatives from agencies which establish policy and regulations affecting the marine environment.

The meeting lasted perhaps two and one-half hours during which the representatives of the different agencies present (Pollution control, Corps of Engineers, Bay Conservation and Development Commission and other representatives of surrounding local cities) gave their version of how their agencies were handling the local problems in their field.

Most of the representatives felt that their respective agencies were doing a good job, though I sensed a feeling by Dubbink that something was missing. After the meeting, I mulled over all the things that were said, because I too had misgivings. I tried to piece it all together and suddenly hit on the reason for Dubbink's and my apprehension.

THE THEME, Life in the Sea, was never really discussed. I believe that Dubbink's apprehension came from this: all of the public meetings which he has been attending, the public continuously came up with the facts that some of the sea life is in trouble; yet here at this meeting, no mention of these facts were discussed.

In working Marin County as a game warden for the past 25 years, I know of and can see the decline of much of our wildlife and sea life. San Francisco Bay is polluted, which eliminates every type of shellfish use; salmon and bass populations have declined from loss of spawning areas due to environmental changes and pollution.

FOR EXAMPLE, Marin County and Southern Sonoma have few fingerlings (small nursery-sized stripers), namely at Petaluma River, San Antonio, Novato Creek, Santa Venetia sloughs and Greenbrae. The market crab fishery is in the doldrums. Bird life, such as brown pelicans, and others are having breeding problems because of insecticides.

Shellfish harvesting in Bolinas Lagoon, is closed for health safety reasons; Tomales Bay is beginning to have pollution problems for the oyster industry. The silver salmon and steelhead runs in the Marin streams are almost nil. Except for the yearly plants of these fish by the Fish and Game Department, the fishing would be futile. Stream trout fishing is almost a thing of the past in Marin.

Here again, plants of trout in Marin's lakes makes for a man-made fishery, not a natural one. It must be redone each year. Plants of 17 million salmon fingerlings each year now make up the bulk of the ocean salmon fishery outside of the Golden Gate. To keep pace here again artificial replacements of the fingerlings are now doing the job each year.

"AT THE CROSSROAD 1974," the second biennial report by the Department of Fish and Game on California's rare and endangered species, carries a hope for the 18 endangered and the 31 rare species listed that face extinction. Environmental and unpolluted sites have been established for their life and protection. The foreword of that report reads: "The factor contributing the most heavily to the demise of nearly all the life forms listed is the loss or alteration of habitat associated with such things as urbanization, agriculture, flood control and water development."

With all of these problems, yet the agencies felt they were doing a good job. They were absolutely sincere! Then what's the problem? It's money! Each agency is curtailed by money problems, either their own or the public's. To quote, "Mayor Alioto says the people of San Francisco could never afford to make the cleanup required of sewage problems to really do the non-pollution job.

BOLINAS AND STINSON Beach have the same problems. Bay discharges from San Rafael and all the cities and towns along the bay have the same problem. The Wildlife Conservation Board doesn't have the money to buy all the lands needed for their needs to save the environment. Marin County needs dams for water more so than they need trout, salmon and steelhead. Marin County Parks and Recreation doesn't have the monies for buying land for esthetic value.

The ranchers don't have the money to eliminate pollution to the degree desirable. The Fish and Game Department needs a raise in license fees just to operate as they have in the past. Two wardens in Marin County and 240 statewide — they are a drop in the bucket! And the new North Central Coast Regional Commission has the monumental task of improving the laws to create a better environment, less pollution, and all the things needed for a better life; it will be most difficult. Perhaps, instead of the billions going for a trip to the moon, the monies should be funneled over to solve our own problems for a better homeland.

The agencies will somehow have to re-evaluate the problems, and come up with better plans or they and their offspring too will be living without life in the sea. You are part of the answer — it's your money that will help get the job done.

Police Gridders Lay Down Law

Patrolman Art Myers threw a 50-yard touchdown pass and scored on a 50-yard interception return Sunday as the San Rafael Police Department locked up a 21-0 victory over the Marin County District Attorney's Office in their annual football game.

The clash at San Rafael High was the rivals' third meeting, with the policemen winning once and tieing once before Sunday.

Tom Smiley, a rookie on the force, caught Myers' touchdown toss. The other score came on a 10-yard run by Ron Averiette.

Sharon Walsh Wins In Slims Tennis Play

WASHINGTON — Sharon Walsh of San Rafael, playing in her first Virginia Slims tennis tournament, yesterday routed Isabel Fernandez of Colombia in first-round action, 6-1, 6-4.

Miss Walsh will meet Kerry Melville tomorrow. Two upsets marked play yesterday, with eight-seeded Valerie Ziegenfuss of Mission Viego falling to Kathy Kuykendall of Miami, 6-3, 6-4, and seventh-seeded Pam Teeguarden of Los Angeles losing to Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia, 6-1, 6-4.

Henrich Homers

A home run in the bottom of the ninth by Tommy Henrich of the New York Yankees won the first World Series game during the 1949 classic. In that game Allie Reynolds pitched a two-hitter against Brooklyn and won 1-0.

Basketball Scoring Led By Dinehart

The Marin County Athletic League has a new basketball scoring leader today as two players moved ahead in what had been a torrid four-man race.

Mike Dinehart of Tamalpais High School, who tallied 22 and 19 points in two games last week, took over the lead with 123 points for a 20.5 average prior to today's games, according to statistics compiled by the Independent-Journal.

San Rafael's Byron Stewart, pouring in 25 and 22, moved up from fourth to second, just one point behind Dinehart with 122 points and a 20.3 average.

The leader for the first two weeks, Mike Mahoney of Marin Catholic, slipped to third at 18.7, and Drake's Eddie Joe Chavez skidded from third to fourth at 17.8. The margin from first to fourth, only seven points last week, is now 16.

Marin Catholic sophomore Gary Johnson and San Marin senior Skip Starnes moved into the top ten, replacing Novato's Curtis Saine and San Marin's Bruce Smith, both of whom missed by one point.

Marin Catholic retained its lead in scoring offense (60.5 points a game), but Drake surrendered its team defense lead to unbeaten San Rafael (46.3). San Rafael, in turn, gave up its superiority in average margin of victory to second-place Redwood, which walloped two opponents by 18 and 36 to boost its average to 12.1.

A total of 24 professional athletes are in the Superstars tournament and none is allowed to participate in his own sport.

THINKING ABOUT RETIREMENT

Winner Ali Sings Different Tune

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — In this, one of his finer hours, when his critics figured he'd crow the most, Muhammad Ali went completely the other way, saying it isn't the fun it used to be, he's getting a little tired of it all and he'll be hanging up his gloves pretty soon now.

"Yes," he said somewhat wearily as he lay on a leather covered rubbing table in his much-too-small dressing room after evening the score with Joe Frazier by way of a unanimous 12-round decision over him at Madison Square Garden last night. "I'd like to fight George Foreman someday."

"One day soon, I mean. I'm sure George and his people want him to be the real champ, and they know he has to fight me to be that. After Foreman, I'll probably quit."

Ali didn't care to argue.

"No," he said, "I'll probably quit after Foreman. Why not? I'm tired; I got three million in the bank; the interest is pretty good and I could live off that alone."

"Nobody's telling me what to do," he said. "I just figured its getting to be time."

"No, get it now," Ali commanded.

"Yeah, now."

Pacheco reached into his medical kit and extracted some ethyl chloride which he sprayed on the infected knuckle.

He then pulled a long needle out of his bag and without any ceremony stuck it right into the knuckle. Ali winced but said nothing as some of the fluid drained from the finger.

"He scratched himself before the fight and the glove must have irritated it," Pacheco said.

Talking about the fight Ali admitted Frazier hurt him twice but he either did not remember the rounds or didn't want to remember them because every time he was asked which rounds he was shook up in he changed the conversation.

"I hurt him a few times," he said. "In the sixth, seventh and eighth rounds. I know I did because I could 'feel' him."

Frazier said he thought he won the fight but didn't sound very convincing. Now and then he'd whistle a couple of good shots off Ali's head, but from where I sat he never seemed able to put enough punches together to change the way the fight was going. On my card, Ali was clearly the winner, 7-4-1.

Their first fight was more explosive, more exciting, only this time there was far less doubt at the finish which one had won the fight.

Stout Pitching

Jon Matlack of the New York Mets pitched 16 World Series innings before allowing an earned run. Then in the third inning of the final game he gave up a pair of two-run homers.

Blank Screen Sets Off A Fight Riot

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI) — A stunned crowd of between 6,000 and 8,000 fight fans hurled beer bottles and chairs through the air of Hara Arena last night moments after watching the video portion of the Muhammad Ali-Joe Frazier bout blank out.

The last-minute blackout so irritated the nervously anticipating spectators that it took more than 100 policemen from at least five law enforcement agencies in Montgomery County to restore order about an hour and a half later.

The Montgomery County sheriff's office reported there were no serious injuries suffered in the melee and three persons were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct.

"They just went berserk when the screen went blank," one spectator said.

Other spectators in the arena said they heard several shots fired in the air after the management of the arena promised a refund for tickets to everyone Tuesday morning.

The tickets were priced at $15 for those bought the day of the fight and $10 in advance.

Services Agency Overcharging Hit

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Department of General Services has been overcharging other state agencies and will have accumulated $21 million by mid-1979, the legislature was told yesterday.

In a report, Legislative Auditor General Harvey Rose said the department's "policy of charges in excess of cost has not been authorized by the legislature."

The department serves as state government's housekeeping agency, making purchases of supplies and providing day-to-day services for other agencies of the vast state bureaucracy.

The report was released by Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, D-San Pedro, chairman of the Joint Legislative Audit Committee. It called for discontinuance of the policy.

The report said the department from July 1, 1972, through last November made $7.3 million in charges in excess of cost, and estimated in the current fiscal year such charges will total $1.8 million.

The proposed state budget contains another $3.2 million for these charges, it said.

The auditor general projected that by mid-1979 the "department plans to have accumulated $21 million from such charges" for working capital.

Rose said the department wants to accumulate the cash so it can, by July 1, 1979, abolish its "cash advance system," under which agencies annually estimate their expected expenditures for supplies and services.

"Since the department must pay its bills (payroll and other expenditures) on a timely basis, a source of cash is needed during the lag time before payment is received from its customers," the report said. "This lag time varies from 75 to 90 days. This source of cash is provided by the cash advance system."

General Services Director Lawrence R. Robinson Jr. wants to eliminate the cash advance system, the report said, because "it does not meet with his business philosophy."

The report quoted Robinson as saying that under the current system other agencies are less likely to complain to him because cash already has been advanced for supplies and services prior to their receipt.

"He stated that when the cash advance system is abolished, the department's customers will have more of an incentive to register complaints, since they will not pay General Services for the supplies and services until after they have been rendered," Rose said.

McCall Says Growth Halt Try Fizzled

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (UPI) — Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon said yesterday his state's campaign to slow down immigration and visiting had been "disappointing," because Oregon now is the fastest-growing of the Pacific Coast states.

McCall, here to address employes of a farm implement plant, said at a news conference that his state "is facing more of the environmental problems it was attempting to stall by halting growth."

The governor said the widely publicized campaign "was the most disappointing boomerang I ever invented."

Reviewing steps taken by Oregon to maintain a clean environment and to conserve energy, McCall said it would be wise for the U.S. Congress to pass a law, which Oregon has enacted, to ban the sale of energy.

"Whatever amount of energy is being saved by the 55 mile per hour speed law could be increased by three times with enactment of a bottle bill nationally," he said. "It takes three times as much energy to produce a new bottle or can as it does to recycle and reuse those already manufactured."

Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., has introduced such a bill in Congress, McCall said, but he warned that "any time you start talking about one be ready for the lobby fight of your life."

McCall said he had urged President Nixon to keep relaxation of any national environmental standards to a case-by-case basis.

Support Voiced For Sewer Plant

Residents of the Stinson Beach Highlands voiced support Saturday for a proposed $1,850,000 sewer treatment and collection system planned by the Stinson Beach County Water District, according to Proctor Jones, president of the district board.

". . . This plan offers us the potential of good sewer service at a reasonable price and should be encouraged," said Wayne Rose, chairman of a Highlands homeowner group.

About 24 persons attended the session with directors of the Water district. Voters will be asked March 5 to approve a loan application to finance the plant.

Coffees Slated For Candidates
